CREATING A CULTURE OF SPORTS IN THE COUNTRY

Vidhanshu Kumar

Once India's legendary sportsperson Kapil Dev was asked why India doesn't win medals proportionate to its population.

Kapil Dev gave a unique insight into this. He said that India is not fulfilling her potential due to lack of 'sports culture' in the country. Elaborating on this he said, sports culture does not mean only few youthful individuals practising sports on a daily basis. According to him, the day grandfathers go out to jog in the morning with grandchildren, sports culture would arrive in the country. Sports and games should be inculcated as a habit among all the people, young and old, and then India can be a true sports superpower that she clearly deserves.

In the last four years, there are clear signs that the government wants to stress on sports not only to win medals at international events, but also to encourage all people to engage in some form of games and physical activity. The most encouraging sign is to see the Prime Minister himself taking huge interest and leading the nation towards fitness and playing physical games.

Khelo India

Among the many initiatives taken up by the Central Government, Khelo India is one that has caught everyone's attention. Khelo India School Games is a concept based on the Olympics model and was launched in January this year. This is a national level multi-disciplinary annual sports competition for under-17 school students of the country. Prime Minister launched this event at the Indira Gandhi Stadium in Delhi and said that sports should be given a 'central place' by the youth of the country. The PM has emphasized that Khelo India movement was not only about winning medals, it was also about building a mass movement for playing and engaging more and more people in sports. PM has stressed that as far as talent goes, India has no dearth of it but it is important for people to take up sports and devote time to play games and make sports a priority. Through sports, personality development can also be achieved in a great way. From Khelo India to CWG medal

A number of achievements and records were broken in the inaugural edition of Khelo India School Games. A total of 209 gold medals were awarded in 16 disciplines that included Archery, Badminton,

CAREERS IN TALENT MANAGEMENT

Vijay Prakash Srivastava

Organizations are made of people and these achieve their goals and objectives through their people. Thus quality and performance of people are considered to be highly crucial for success of any organization. Over a period of time this people power has assumed more significance and now every organization (commercial, social, educational etc.) is very particular in choosing right people for their requirements and equipping them with necessary skills etc. to optimise their contribution. Talent management is more comprehensive than the erstwhile personnel or HR management function which most of us are familiar with. Talent management primarily involves formulating and executing strategies for sourcing right people and developing and retaining them. It considers people the real differentiator in performance of an organization and treats them as talent. Many organizations have rechristened their HR function as talent management function and have also started paying more attention on the people aspect.

Major activities covered under talent management are described below:

Talent sourcing: Organizations and businesses need people for different roles. This need is met through recruitment process for which this new term of talent sourcing is used. In fact talent sourcing is an extension of recruitment function. The traditional methods of recruitment like advertising are still being used but now more and more organizations are willing to recruit people with right profile through referrals, sourcing from social media platforms etc. For entry level positions many of the big and mid-size companies depend on campus recruitments. Finding suitable people for specific job roles is the primary function of HR. It is getting more challenging day by day. Maximum number of opportunities in talent management are in recruitment and for most of the young people qualified in HR, their career begins with working in recruitment function.

Talent development: Under talent management there is strong focus on talent development. Every progressive organization makes substantial investment in equipping its people with required knowledge, skills and aptitude. This investment is in forms of money, time and efforts. Various methods are used for the purpose of talent development. Training is most common of these. Depending on specific needs, organizations provide product, process and behavioural training to their people. Coaching and mentoring are other tools used for talent development. Training needs identification, designing training & development programmes, preparing

PM'S ADDRESS AT THE 4TH INTERNATIONAL YOGA DAY CELEBRATIONS IN DEHRADUN ON 21st JUNE, 2018 (ENGLISH RENDERING)

All the dignitaries present here on the dais and all my friends present in this beautiful ground, I convey my best wishes on the fourth International Day for Yoga to Yoga lovers all over the world from this holy land of Devbhumi Uttarakhand.

It's no less than our good fortune that all of us have gathered here in this manner on the occasion of Yoga day on this land of mother Ganges where four holy shrines are located, the land which was visited by Adi Shankaracharya and where Swami Vivekanand also came several times.

Even otherwise, Uttarakhand has been the main centre for Yoga for several decades. These mountains of Uttarakhand spontaneously inspire us for Yoga and Ayurveda.

Even a common man gets a unique divine feeling when he visits this place. There is an incredible spirit, vibrations and magnetic power in this holy land.

Friends

It's a matter of pride for all Indians that today as the rising sun will progress on its journey, as the sunrays will reach the earth and light is spread, in all those places people will welcome the sun with Yoga.

From Dehradun to Dublin, from Shanghai to Chicago, from Jakarta to Johannesburg, every-where, there is Yoga all around.

Whether it is thousands of feet high mountains of Himalaya or be it desert area singed by sunlight, Yoga is flourishing life in every situation.

When divisive powers gain prominence then it leads to disintegration. It leads to division among the people, division among the societies and division among the countries. When there is a division in the society then it leads to discord within the family and the person breaks down from inside and tension in life continues to grow.

Yoga helps to maintain balance amidst this disintegration. It does the job of uniting us.

Yoga brings about peace in this modern fast paced life by combining the body, mind, spirit and soul.

It brings about peace in the family by uniting the person with the family.

It brings about a harmony in the society by making the family sensitive towards society.

Societies become the links for national integration.

And this kind of countries bring about peace and harmony in the world. And humanity flourishes and gains strength from this feeling of brotherhood.

It means Yoga unites individuals, families, societies, countries and the world and it unites the entire humanity.

When the proposal for Yoga Day was moved in the United Nations then it is a record in the United Nations that this was the first such motion that was co-sponsored by the maximum number of countries in the world. And this was the first such proposal in the history of United Nations which was approved in the least time. And today every citizen of the world, every country of the world considers Yoga as its own and it is an important message for the people of India that we are the inheritors of that great legacy, that we have preserved the legacy of that great tradition.

If we start taking pride in our legacy and if we abandon those things which are out of sync with the time, and that kind of thing doesn't last either. However, what is appropriate as per the time and which is useful in making of the future, if we take pride in our great legacy of this kind then the world too will never hesitate in taking pride in that. But if we don't have any trust in our own strength and capabilities then no one will accept it. If a family itself continues to demoralise a child in the family and if that family expects that the kid will be respected in the locality then it is not possible. When parents, when family, when brothers and sisters, all of them accept a child as it is, only then the neighbours also start accepting the child.

Today, Yoga has proved that as India has once again attached itself to the power of Yoga, similarly, the world too has started attaching itself with Yoga.

Today, Yoga has become one of the most powerful unifying forces in the world.

I can say it with full sense of confidence that today if we gather the number of people doing Yoga in the entire world then incredible facts will be revealed to the world.

People gathering for Yoga, people like you gathering for Yoga in different countries, in parks, in open grounds, on the sides of the roads, in offices and homes, in hospitals, in schools and colleges, in the historic buildings, have been providing further energy to the feeling of this universal brotherhood and global friendship.

Friends, the world has embraced Yoga and glimpses of this can be seen in the manner in which International Day of Yoga has been marked every year.

In fact, Yoga Day has become one of the biggest mass movements in the quest for good health and well-being.

Friends, from Tokyo to Toronto, from Stockholm to Sao Paulo, Yoga has become a positive influence in the lives of millions.

Yoga is beautiful because it is ancient yet modern... it is constant, yet evolving.

It has the best of our past and present and a ray of hope for our future.

In Yoga, we have the perfect solution to the problems we face, either as individuals or in our society.

Ours is a world that never sleeps. At every given point, there is something happening in a different part of the world.

The Prime Minister, Shri Narendra Modi participates in the mass yoga demonstration, on the occasion of the 4th International Day of Yoga 2018, at the Forest Research Institute, in Dehradun, Uttarakhand on June 21, 2018.

A fast-paced existence brings with it lot of stress. I was shocked to read that every year, almost 18 million people all over the world die due to heart-related diseases. About 1.6 million people lose the fight against diabetes.

The way to lead a calm, creative and content life is Yoga. It can show the way in defeating tensions and mindless anxiety.

Instead of dividing, Yoga always unites.

Instead of further animosity, Yoga assimilates.

Instead of increasing suffering, Yoga heals.

Practicing Yoga has the ability to herald an era of peace, happiness and brotherhood.

More people practicing Yoga means the world needs more people to teach it. Over the last three years many individuals are teaching Yoga, new institutions are being set up and even technology is connecting people to Yoga. I urge you all to build on this momentum in the times to come.

May this Yoga Day become an opportunity to deepen our connect with Yoga and motivate people around us to practice it. This can be the enduring impact of this day.

Friends, Yoga has shown the path of wellness to the world from the path of illness.

This is the reason because of which the acceptance for Yoga throughout the world has been increasing so rapidly.

It has revealed in the studies conducted by Coventry University and Radboud University that Yoga not only provides relief to our bodies but it can also reverse those molecular reactions taking place in our DNA that cause illness and depression.

We can protect ourselves from several diseases in addition to having a good health if we daily practice the poses and breathing exercise of Yoga. Regular practice of Yoga has a direct bearing on the medical expenses of any family.

It is essential for us to stay healthy to join in every activity, every process of nation building and Yoga certainly has a big role in this too.

Therefore, today, I urge you people that those who have been practicing Yoga please make it regular, and those who could not start doing Yoga so far they must make an effort once.

Friends, the increasing spread of Yoga has brought the world to India and India to the world even closer. The position that Yoga has got in the world due to constant efforts made by us, that position will be further strengthened with time.

It is our responsibility to further develop the understanding about Yoga for a healthy and happy humanity. Please come forward, let us further intensify our efforts by keeping our responsibility in the mind.

From this holy land, I once again convey my best wishes to the Yoga enthusiasts all over the world.

I convey my sincere regards to the government of Uttarakhand for organising this event.

Thank you very much.

CHALLENGES AND OPPORTUNITIES FOR MSMEs

P M Mathew

The founding fathers of the Republic of India visualized a comprehensive nation-building role for the country's small enterprises. Over time, this sector has grown into a highly diversified base of the country's manufacturing system. While the global economy changes rapidly, with the hegemonic role of disruptive technologies, the MSME role in India needs a more broad based and realistic understanding. This is because, MSMEs constitute the basic form of entrepreneurship. Entrepreneurship often sprouts at the grass root level, as a realization of the employment aspirations of the people. It is important to understand scientifically, such aspirations, and to nurture such grass root level impulses. Therefore, a discussion on MSMEs need to be part and parcel of the agenda of economic growth in general, and of employment promotion in specific.

Global Investment and Enterprise Scene Today

Public policy, in any country, is influenced by global developments, so are public programmes. An understanding of this emerging scene is critical for policy making in India today. A dynamic mix of re-shoring, intra-regional trade and hubanomics, form the emerging global business model today. Large knowledge companies like Google, Apple, Facebook and Amazon have created a technology wave and competitive landscape, which forms the next evolution of the industrial Revolution.

The experience as we have in 2017, is one where every business has a tendency of operation based on a hub, which produces the latest concept of 'Hubanomics'.

India's industrialization perspective, since Independence, has been focused on a two-pronged approach: 1) providing employment opportunities; and 2) taking such opportunities, to the extent possible, to the villages, as a regional development tool. This kind of an approach has significantly contributed to the growth of a large number of semi-urban centres that provides a significant space for MSMEs in the country. The urban space is inhabited by both the rich and the poor, having their specific approaches and perspectives on income opportunities. The self-employed have a potential for contributing to the local economy incrementally. Public policy should be capable of ensuring connectivity between the urban and rural areas.

'Make in India' is a highly visible national campaign-mode initiative which needs to be translated into action at two levels: First, there is need for attracting large foreign and domestic investments. Secondly, these large enterprises also need MSMEs for subcontracting linkages and service delivery. It is important to have a prior knowledge of the MSMEs and their capabilities, in order to foster such linkages.

Challenges and Opportunities

Since independence, under the Planning era, several experiments were initiated to lay down the building blocks of a strategy as indicated above. However, under planning, it was necessary to set up centralized institutional structures and policy instruments, even in areas where decisions affecting the local economy were to be taken. It is this rationale that forms the co-existence of departments that cater to modern small-scale industries, on the one hand, and others catering to village enterprises (eg: consider the various Department under ministries of MSME and textiles). There have been constant attempts to ensure a synergic co-existence of the two, but such attempts have often not yielded the desired results. This demands the need for a fresh look into the relevance of the various public programmes, relating to their impact on the local people and their livelihoods.

There are both vertical and horizontal problems. On the one hand, the aspirations of the people at the local level is a mix of co-operation and conflict. While some of the aspirations such as local infrastructure, are less prone to conflicts, in the case of most of the goods and services produced, there is a conflict of interests. Therefore, the term 'development' in the local context, cannot be a 'one-stitch-for all'. This demands a new approach to defining and practicing 'development'. The purpose of 'development' is to ensure and maximize human welfare. Even the concept of 'welfare' is not a uniform pack. Therefore, it is necessary to have concrete steps on the following lines: 1) placing man at the centre stage of 'development'; and 2) Defining 'welfare' in relation to some bottom-line criteria.

Human welfare has three ingredients: a) economic; b) social; c) environmental. A local Economic Development policy should translate the three into economic activities in a participative manner. It is important that any such policy that may be articulated, should ensure an economic bottom-line that satisfies the majority of the local population. It is also important to ensure that this bottom-line does not conflict with some of the accepted social parameters. Besides, there need to be a focus on environment, in such a way that the initiatives of local economic development are sustainable, and are acceptable to a future generation.

While the national interests and goals are as above, globally, capital has vertical interests. Therefore, shaping a development agenda, at the regional level is a hard choice. Without a proper evidence-base, India cannot pull on with its present day programmes for MSME development.

Need for an integrated Development Approach

Considering the emerging complexities of the economy, there is need for an integrated development approach on MSMEs. The various opportunities and critical constraints need to be pinpointed. New research and evidences should lead to a review and restatement of existing policies, with a thrust on the following:

Political and Administrative Powers: Under the 56th Amendment of the Constitution, village and small scale industries is a subject of the local governments. In India's bottom-heavy industrial structure, a large number of small and tiny enterprises, often located in small towns and villages, contribute to the small enterprise output of the country. This also implies that the breeding of entrepreneurship and shaping of entrepreneurship resources in the country is a local phenomenon.

Capabilities: It is also important to understand, whether these lower tiers of government, and their administrative machinery are objectively, capable of exercising such powers. In the case of local economic development programs, and especially enterprise development programs, the current state of these capabilities need to be examined the component that is often missing is advisory services at various stages of planning and execution of an entrepreneurial activity (which is today lacking both at the local and State level.) By the term 'capability', the priority should go to such services, rather than the array of administrative tiers from the district down to the panchayat level. In fact, it is necessary to have a coordinating and hand holding mechanism at the level of local governments. However, beyond the so called "administration", the focus needs to be on specific functional areas as follows: a.) Identification of project ideas and business opportunities; b.) Provision of general information and guidance; c.) Onward support services; and d.) Documentation, net working and creating ground for synergies. These functions can best be performed by competent BDS providers.

Governments will have to increasingly play a catalytic role in helping SMEs to tap the emerging benefits of the 'new economy'. Strengthening business development services, and creation of a social capital base can help to improve the situation. On the side of threats, knowledge remains too difficult to be accessed by the SMEs. Technologies become increasingly disruptive so that, by the time a new technology is adapted it becomes obsolete.

Resources: Under the existing formula of resource sharing between the State governments and the Local governments, the necessary resources for coordinating several of the base level promotion activities relating to enterprise development are available with the local governments. While some of the promotional activities being performed by the district industries Centers today can be handed over to the Local governments, the corresponding funds also should flow along with that. This will also help to equip the local governments with the necessary financial resources.

Development of Synergies: Enterprise development is a subject area where synergies and networking are critical. Today, these synergies need to be ensured, primarily between the center and the state, on the one hand, and the state and the district administration, on the other. In fact, it is the Office of the District Collector that ensures such synergies through the mechanism of various committees, of course, with the lead role of the line department. This implies a limit to professionalism.

Making synergies for enterprise development, demands both vertical and horizontal strengthening of the constituency of 'enterprise' is vital. Horizontally, there is need for an understanding of enterprise as a specialised subject, across the various line departments. This necessitates an Enterprise resource policy. The existence of clarity and strengthening of the constituency, would imply that, every tier of government, from the union, down to the local government, are clear about their relative roles and functions, and are able to function responsibly. In the absence of such a perspective, each tier of government will identify some program and scheme of their imagination, and will try to thrust them upon the lower tier of government. This leads to a wide gulf between schemes and people's needs and aspirations.

Recent Initiatives

The government of India, since 2014, has taken several steps to deal with the related aspects of skills, entrepreneurship development, and promotion of manufacturing. This integrated approach gets reflected in two major forms: 1) Development of a policy framework; and 2) Introduction of specially structured programmes that deal with these related aspects. For transforming India into manufacturing hub, 'Make in India' was announced as a flagship programme. As a corollary of this major programme, several other programmes were announced.

Skill India was announced in order to mitigate the critical problem of skill gap. The question of skills was again defined in terms of both technical and managerial skills. It was visualized that, such an integrated approach to skills will, on the one hand, meet the needs of the corporate sector, and will arrest rural-urban migration on the other. Thus, skills were identified as the nutrient for entrepreneurship development.

In order to have a proper integration of the skilling agenda, with that of entrepreneurship promotion, a separate programme called 'Start-up India' was announced. This programme visualizes and tries to take advantage of India's opportunities relating to the 'new economy'.

Policy Initiatives: Implications

In this context there is a critical policy question regarding the further course of action. Should the MSME sector of the country remain largely informal as in the past, or should we move forward with careful strategies towards formalization. The term formalization involves a variety of steps including infusion of better technology, better organization, better managerial practices and more advanced development programmes. The government of India has chosen the path of accelerating innovation in the MSME sector.

While the total effect of all the measures taken by the government is enhanced formalization of the enterprise system, the next step should be a five pronged strategy for sustaining such results. There is need for a three pronged approach: 1) Detailed Subsectoral understanding of MSME dominant sub sectors; 2) A, re interpretation of the functioning of the economy on the basis of clear functional criteria, rather than on the basis of old criteria such as, rural-urban, male-female etc; 3) A rationalization of the role of institutions, on the basis of detailed studies; 4) re-interpretation of the role of finance, and a restructuring of the relationship between finance and the real sector; 5) Planning for Entrepreneurship as a critical resource.

Conclusion

The importance of MSMEs in local economic development, as also the need for local economic development, are indisputable today. However, the policy perception and the details of a strategic approach needs much more clarity. However, while shaping a new approach in this area, it can, by no means, be a partial approach. It is important to focus on the macroeconomic policy in general, as also an understanding of the context in which regional diversity of the country is treated as a potential setting for enterprise development.

training budget and evaluating return on investment are major tasks under talent development. This also covers leadership development.

Succession planning: Generally organizations have to last longer than people. Roles in organizations stay even though people move. After attaining a certain age people have to superannuate. In addition organizations have to plan for contingencies when sudden vacancies occur due to unexpected departures like deaths and attrition of employees. Succession planning is the strategy to ensure availability of suitable talent whenever the need arises. Under this, organizations groom people for higher responsibilities and also for new roles that may emerge in future. These days organizations prefer to develop an internal talent pool to reduce dependence on sourcing of experienced people from outside. It keeps their talent acquisition cost low and is considered a motivating factor for employees.

Employee engagement: To get best out of their people organizations have to create an enabling environment. Such an environment is employee friendly and encouraging. Employee engagement activities are aimed at improving workplace design, help employees find meaning in their work, make them more attached to their work and enhance their commitment to organization. In many researches it has been proved that engaged employees produce better organizational results quantitatively and qualitatively. They are more likely to continue in the organizations which brings down the attrition rate. Various activities including fun activities and other interventions are used to create higher employee engagement.

Compensation and benefits: This function of talent management deals with salaries, allowances, other reimbursements and payouts to employees. In case of private sector jobs, now the trend is to negotiate salary for almost every employee hired. Organizations calculate cost to company and accordingly offer financial package which may differ for different employees hired for the same role or position. Also in many cases the pay is divided into fixed and variable pay. The quantum and periodicity of increments also varies from case to case. The new age employee comes with different expectations when it comes to work conditions and pay. Accordingly organizations are becoming more flexible in such matters with the purpose of attracting and retaining right talent. Permitting employees to work from home is an example of this.

Performance review and management: Employee performance review has been a part of HR process since decades. Now organizations are putting in substantial efforts to make it more realistic, objective and scientific. In many organizations the appraisal process is participative and the focus is not only to evaluate the performance but also to understand the potential an employee may have. With such understanding it becomes easier for organizations to place employees in roles, positions and functions where they are likely to contribute most. In bigger organizations performance review remains a huge exercise.

Social media presence: All of us know how the new generation is attached to social media. In past 4-5 years, talent management function has got heavily influenced by social media and has started using it for talent sourcing, brand building and reaching out to job seekers. Now most organizations are keen to establish their strong social media presence and build a positive employer brand. Employees keep posting at social media channels, their opinion about employer companies with both their positive and negative work experiences. Companies also are curious to learn about such comments which come to them as feedback and help them modify their talent management practices where considered necessary.

H R Analytics: This is the most recent function added to talent management. It is also known as talent analytics. Under analytics we use data to draw conclusions and make decisions. HR departments have plethora of data pertaining to past and present employees. Through data analytics predictions can be made for future trends and requirements. For example analytics can help in knowing the additional headcount required when business is expected to grow at a particular rate, which employees are more likely to quit the job and if there are some differences in performance indicators of candidates recruited from various campuses.

In older, long standing big organizations you may find exclusive departments for Transfer & Placements, Promotions, Industrial Relations etc. under HR function. These also form part of talent management.

Educational/Professional Qualification: To make a career in talent management, you require a postgraduate degree/ diploma in Human Resource Management or should have chosen HR as specialization in your MBA/MMS/PG Diploma in Management. Such courses are available at most of the Management Institutes or Universities having a Department of Management. It takes minimum 2 years to obtain such qualification.

Management Education: All management colleges and management departments at Universities have requirement for HR faculty. Recruitments are based on the norms prescribed by All India Council for Technical Education and Universities Grants Commission. Usually a doctorate is required to be eligible for faculty positions. Fellow programmes in management are available at IIMs which may help you to take up a teaching career. Management departments also need research associates.

Non-Governmental organizations: Voluntary/Non-Government organizations need HR professionals for administrative, training and counselling purposes. Such organizations may be operating at international, national, state and local levels. Child Relief & You, Action Aid, Oxfam, SOS Children's Villages, World Vision are examples of well-known NGOs. Many corporates have their arms for corporate social responsibility activities. Work opportunities are available with these as well.

Banks and Financial Institutions: Public sector banks recruit HR professionals as specialist officers to be posted at their administrative offices. After a certain period of service they can move to general banking. Private sector banks, foreign banks offer similar opportunities. Non-banking financial companies, housing/ infrastructure finance companies, insurance companies in public & private sector, mutual funds companies have regular requirements of talent management professionals.

Startups: As a talent management professional you may explore opportunity to work as an employee in a startup. Also there are a number of startups working in the business of talent management. You may also join as a partner or become owner of a similar startup. For such a venture certain resources will be required. Startups also look for interns in various management disciplines including HR.

Career Path: With a postgraduate qualification in HR, you have the option to begin your career as a trainee or junior executive in public or private organization. Where the size of organization and its talent management department is big, you may be assigned a particular HR domain (e.g. recruitment, compensation & benefits) to work into. In smaller organizations you may have to look after multiple HR functions. Those who want to continue in one organization for long may do so. For others there always exist opportunities to seek better positions through lateral entry. Experienced talent management professionals are in regular demand and it is not a surprise to find people with 7-8 years' experience having worked in 2-3 or more organizations. Make sure that decisions regarding change of job are well thought out and not taken in haste.

Also it is for every talent management professional to decide if he or she wants to learn all disciplines of talent management or is willing to develop expertise in a particular domain (like talent analytics). It is possible to exercise both options simultaneously. If you progress well, depending on your skills and performance, some of you should be head of talent management function in a small/ mid-size company within 12-15 year of service. Few HR professionals have reached up to CEO level also. This is applicable for careers in corporate world only. After having some industry experience one can move to teaching or consultancy. Experienced people can also be appointed as placement officer at management institutes.

Traits for success: A career in talent management is of interaction and dealing with people. As such you should be good at verbal and non-verbal communication. Patience, empathy, ability to work hard to meet deadlines, decision making, problem solving and negotiation skills are few of the other requirements to help you succeed in a talent management career.

Basketball, Boxing, Football, Gymnastics, Hockey, Judo, Kabaddi, Kho Kho, Shooting, Swimming, Volleyball, Weight Lifting, Wrestling, and Track and Field events.

Haryana won maximum medals, gold medals at 38 and 102 overall. Maharashtra was second with 110 medals and Delhi finished third with 94 medals to its kitty.

The quality of competition at the Khelo India School Games was top notch. What was most encouraging was to see some of the champions at the Khelo India Games win laurels at international stages including Common Wealth Games.

Teenagers Manu Bhaker (shooting) and Srihari Nataraj (swimming) broke many records at the Khelo India School Games and emerged as champions from the ambitious program launched by the government.

Manu won gold in 10 m Air Pistol with a new national record. Nataraj also broke national record in backstroke and won overall 6 gold and a silver medal at the Khelo India Games.

The two were rewarded with berths at the Common Wealth Games in Australia and they did not disappoint. Nataraj improved upon his record in 50 meters backstroke and playing sports a true culture in the country.

The Ministry is also developing an app that will give information about nearby grounds, playing facilities etc and also provide inputs on how to improve one's game. This app will fill the gaps in 'where to play' and 'how to play'. Government and PSU playing facilities location etc. can be accessed through this app. There will also be a number of 'how to play' videos in various disciplines.

Fitness Challenge

Under the able leadership of PM, the Sports Ministry has also devised a number of unique programs that have far reaching effects.

Union Minister of Youth Affairs and Sports Col. Rajyavardhan Singh Rathore started a novel event called Fitness Challenge. Sports fraternity has huge respect for Rathore who is himself an Olympic medal winner.

Rathore tweeted his video in which he is doing push-ups. The Minister also requested people to shoot their own fitness videos and tag others. Rathore tagged Indian cricket captain Virat Kohli, who accepted the challenge and posted his own video. Kohli tagged PM Shri Modi who also accepted the challenge. The Prime Minister also urged the nation to take up this drive. Soon this became a huge reached the semifinals, but could not qualify for the finals.

Meanwhile Manu Bhaker won India's first gold medal at the CWG in Gold Coast. Manu set a new CWG record in 10 m Air Pistol and outshone many senior shooters including Heena Sidhu. Bhaker is already touted as the star for the future.

Khelo India - Taking forward

Government has ambitious plans to take this flagship sports event forward. Union Minister for Sports and Youth Affairs Shri Rajyavardhan Singh Rathore has said that there is no shortage of funds for this event. In its future endeavors the Ministry is planning to train more coaches at the grassroot community levels so that they are able to provide right coaching. Plans are also afoot to involve more girls in Khelo India initiative. Idea is to bring more behavioral changes and make phenomenon on social media. Hashtag '#Hum Fit Toh India Fit' became viral and trended on various social media platforms.

At the IPL final, a wonderful commercial was played in which PM and other senior leaders along with a host of Bollywood and sports stars are seen taking the fitness challenge and cajoling people to get into some exercise regime.

Ever since, every day thousands of videos are uploaded online and this movement has escalated into a mass movement. People across states and regions, men and women, all age groups are participating in this fitness challenge. This has ignited a spark and for the movement to attain full benefits it is important that people inculcate fitness regime in their daily routine and not let it go after posting videos.

The Minister of State for Youth Affairs and Sports (I/C) and Information & Broadcasting (I/C), Col. Rajyavardhan Singh Rathore at the launch of the Khelo India logo, at the Jawaharlal Nehru Stadium, in New Delhi on January 05, 2018.

Target Olympic Podium

The Government is also running a program that aims to see more Indian athletes at the winning pedestal of Olympic Games. The scheme is named as Target Olympic Podium (TOP) and it was launched in 2014 by the Ministry of Youth Affairs and Sports.

The objective of the scheme is to identify medal prospects for 2016 and 2020 Olympic Games and also support them in their training. In the first stage of TOP, seven disciplines - Athletics, Archery, Badminton, Boxing, Shooting, Wrestling and Yachting - were identified.

Around 100 athletes were selected in the stage who were provided financial assistance to undertake training at top institutes in India and abroad.

The Committee to identify players for this scheme was reconstituted and it got a new chairman in Abhinav Bindra in 2017. The other sportspersons in this ten-member committee are PT Usha, Prakash Padukone, Anjali Bhagwat and Karnam Malleswari.

This committee has the objective to identify and support players for 2020 and 2024 Olympic Games. The focused approach is expected to improve India's medals tally at Olympics as respected sportspersons have been roped in to lead this scheme. The current minister Shri Rajyavardhan Singh Rathore himself is an Olympic medal winner and carries a lot of expectation from sports lovers.

Expanding Sports Industry

Many countries have ridden on the wave of sport economy. Sports is a multi-billion dollar global industry and the size of this industry is estimated to be around 600 billion US Dollars. But in this multi-billion dollar industry, India's contribution is a mere 2 billion US Dollars. The Indian government has identified this lacuna. The government wants to expand the sports industry too as this is one sector where India has not performed as well as a country can.

The government believes that with active participation in sports and by winning enough laurels in the international arena, the ecosystem for sports industry can be strengthened.

While inaugurating a world class synthetic track in Kerala, the PM said via video conference that a strong sporting culture can help the growth of a sporting economy. He said sports can help in creating employment in different segments like professional leagues, sports science, sports equipment and surfaces, sports medicine, merchandise and sports apparels, support staffs, nutrition, skill development, sports management etc.

India's performance in big events

India's performance in multi discipline and multi country events has been constantly improving.

A clear pattern of improved performance over the years emerges for India. The period of 2008-2012 sees a clear high in achievements with a slight dip in 2014-2016.

From the lows of Beijing Asian Games in 1990 when India won a lone medal in Kabaddi, to finishing 8th in the 2014 Asian Games in Incheon, South Korea, India has come a long way. At the Incheon Asian Games that were held from 19 September to 4 October 2014, India won 11 gold medals, 10 silver medals and 36 Bronze medals. India won a total of 57 medals in 2014. This was however less as compared to 2010 Asian Games in Guangzhou, China where India won 65 medals and finished 6th. Indian athletes are hoping to better their performance in the upcoming Asian Games in Jakarta and Palembang, Indonesia.

In Common Wealth Games India's best ever performance was in 2010 when the nation won 101 medals with 38 gold, 27 silver and 36 bronze medals. India finished second overall in medals tally, just behind Australia. However there was a dip in 2014 when India won 15 gold medals, 30 silver medals and 19 bronze medals. But this tally was improved in the just concluded Common Wealth Games in Australia. India won 66 medals with 26 gold, 20 silver and 20 bronze medals.

At the Summer Olympics too India 2012 London Olympics was India's best performance ever in terms of most medals won - 6 in all with 2 silvers and 4 bronze medals.

Gold medal has been elusive for India since Abhinav Bindra's gold in 2008, and before that 8 gold medals that Indian Hockey team has won over the years. In 2016 Rio Olympics, India could win two medals - one silver and one bronze.

India is hoping that the continued effort by government, sports federations and athletes and coaches will help improve results in coming events. Common Wealth Games of 2018 is a good sign of improvement and hopefully India will continue the good results at Asian Games and Tokyo Olympics.

Other than multi-discipline events, Indian players have shown great improvements in the disciplines of badminton and shooting and marked improvement in table tennis, athletics, chess etc.

Schemes such as Target Olympic Podium have been designed to help India get better medals position and the efforts are beginning to show results.

Conclusion

The most heartening fact is the impetus of the present government to bring a culture of sports in the country. The two pronged approach - one, to motivate people to play games and two, to help India achieve more medals is a correct way to address the problem of lack of awareness towards sports in India. For India to grow into a sporting nation sports has to come out of the clutches of a few highly motivated people and the masses should indulge in sporting activities. Once more and more people are encouraged to take up sports, the problem of winning less medals will automatically get solved. The focus is not only about winning, but also about creating a fit India.

The answer is that right efforts are finally being made towards this and India has started a long journey that will help reap rich rewards, not only in the field of sports, but in overall growth and development of the nation.
