ROLE OF MSMEs AND STARTUPS IN INDIA'S ECONOMY

Apurv Kumar Mishra

Since taking over in May 2014, the present government has taken a two-pronged approach to make MSMEs and startups engines of India's growth. Firstly, a top-down approach to improve India's macroeconomic indicators and improve ease of doing business was adopted which benefited every entrepreneur but especially MSMEs and startups. Secondly, a bottom-up approach focused on special incentives for MSMEs and startups to thrive and generate employment for the 1 million Indians joining workforce every month. The guiding philosophy for both set of reforms is to create a rule-based level playing field in which entrepreneurs can become globally competitive. Top-down reforms that will benefit MSMEs and startups include introduction of GST, institutionalizing insolvency and bankruptcy cases, gradual liberalization of FDI in all sectors, aggressive tackling of NPA crisis in banking sector, heavy investment in infrastructure and creation of a Government e-Marketplace (GeM) portal to streamline state procurements so that even smaller companies can bid for government contracts at competitive rates online.

Bottom-up reforms for both MSMEs and startups are focused on the following three pillars: 1. Improving access to capital 2. Improving access to technology 3. Reduction of transaction costs. Two big reforms for MSMEs were reclassification of such units from 'investment in plant & machinery/equipment to 'annual turnover' based on GST filings which removed inspector raj and reduction of corporate tax rate from 30 percent to 25 percent for companies with annual turnover up to INR 250 crore that benefited more than 60 million MSME units across India. The government has a long standing Public Procurement Policy under which every Central Ministry/Department/CPSE will procure a minimum of 20 percent of the total annual purchases of the goods or services from Micro & Small Enterprises (MSEs). The policy includes other benefits such as exemption from Earnest Money Deposit (EMD), free of cost tender set, price preference and reservation of 358 items for procurement exclusively from MSEs.

Several measures have been taken to improve access to capital for MSME entrepreneurs. Prime Minister’s Employment Generation Programme (PMEGP) is a major credit-linked subsidy programme for micro-enterprises in non-farm sector which provided assistance to 4.49 lakh micro enterprises till December 2017. Credit Guarantee Scheme for Micro and Small Enterprises (CGTMSE) provides collateral free credit facility to MSMEs and has benefitted over 28 lakh enterprises. Its corpus has been tripled from INR 2500 crore to 7500 crore. RBI has played its part by relaxing asset classification norms for MSMEs and removal of credit caps under Priority Sector Lending (PSL) for MSMEs. This ensures that loan of any amount to such units is treated as a priority sector loan without any credit caps. Even the allocation for MUDRA scheme has been enhanced in this year's budget to INR 3 lakh crore for the 2018-19 fiscal year.

TRADITIONAL AND EMERGING CAREERS IN ECONOMICS

Vijay Prakash Srivastava

Paul A. Samuelson, a leading economist and a Nobel Laureate, once said - I don't care who writes a nation's laws or creates its advanced treaties, if I can write its Economics textbooks. The statement conveys the importance of economics from an economist's point of view. This is just one perspective. In fact, economics is an important subject from all perspectives. Developments and changes in economy influence larger sections of population. Economic and social developments are inter related. Consistent and all round economic progress is on the agenda of every government. The subject offers varied interesting traditional and emerging career opportunities. Traditional career opportunities have mostly been in teaching and general research. Emerging opportunities are spread all around. What Economics is about? Economics is considered both pure science and social science. Many economists believe that in economics, a problem is solved by adopting a scientific approach, which involves collecting and analyzing data and making related laws and theories. As such it is a discipline of science. By others it is classified as social science as it studies the behaviour patterns of human beings. This classification is based on the belief that the basic function of economics is to study how individuals, households, organizations, and nations utilize their limited resources to maximize their profit. Economics has two divisions-microeconomics and macroeconomics. Microeconomics deals with what economic choices (like spending, saving etc.) people make and how these choices affect demand and supply scenario. Hence it is the study of economic behaviour of individuals, households, firms etc. Macroeconomics takes a look at bigger economy -national or global. It covers issues like gross domestic product, interest rates, inflation rate, employment scenario of a country. It also touches upon international trade and the overall impact of imports and exports on a nation's economy. Microeconomics deals with the economic problems of a single industry or organization, while macroeconomics deals with the problems of economy as a whole. Both these branches contribute a major part in business analysis and decision-making directly and indirectly. As a student of economics you get to read and explore economic theories and principles, laws of supply and demand, factors of production, relation between economic growth and social development, inflation, money supply, consumer behaviour and many other topics.

Applied Economics: This branch of economics has evolved rather late but is continued on page 37
Prime Minister Shri Narendra Modi gave awards to top ranked States and Districts with maximum citizen participation based on the National Swachh Survekshan Grameen 2018 commissioned by Ministry of Drinking Water and Sanitation. The awards were given at the concluding session of Mahatma Gandhi International Sanitation Convention at Rashtrapati Bhawan Cultural Centre. Haryana was ranked as the best State while Satara District of Maharashtra was ranked as the best district as per the ranking undertaken by Swachh Survekshan Grameen 2018. Uttar Pradesh was rewarded for maximum citizens’ participation. Later, Ms Uma Bharti, Union Minister for Drinking Water and Sanitation gave awards at Pravasi Bhartiya Kendra, New Delhi to top three States and Districts from all the zones of the country.

The Ministry of Drinking Water and Sanitation had commissioned “Swachh Survekshan Grameen-2018” (SSG 2018) through an independent survey agency to develop ranking of all districts of India on the basis of quantitative and qualitative sanitation (Swachhata) parameters. This ranking was done based on a comprehensive set of parameters including surveys of public places like schools, Anganwadis, PHCs, Haat/ Bazaars, Panchayat and citizen’s perception of Swachhata and their recommendations for improvement of the program and data from the SBM-G IMIS.

As part of Swachh Survekshan Grameen, 6786 villages in 685 Districts across India were covered, 27,963 public places namely schools, anganwadis, public health centres, haat/bazaars/religious places in these 6786 villages were visited by an independent agency for survey. Around 182,531 citizens were interviewed for their feedback in villages on SBM-G related issues. Also, citizens were mobilised to provide feedback on sanitation related issues online using an application developed for the purpose. The collection of data from Direct Observation were based on physical observation of the sanitation status in public places by the survey agency. The survey agency used maps and simple handheld device/recording formats to record their observations and findings along with photographs/videos, wherever necessary.

Feedback from people were obtained using Community wide open meetings, personal interviews and focussed group discussions, FGDs were conducted in each village. More than 1.5 crore people participated in the SSG 2018 and provided their feedback.

The SSG 2018 turned out to be massive mass mobilisation exercise with communities in each village undertaking special drives to improve the general cleanliness in their villages. Gram Panchayats invested funds from their local area development fund to undertake sanitation improvement in public places.

catching up fast. Behavioral Economics tries to explain how human psychology determines economic decisions and how, many of the economic decisions taken by individuals are not necessarily logical or rational. It looks into aspects of choices, influences etc.

Development Economics: As the term suggests Development economics is a branch of economics that focuses on improving economies of developing and under developed countries. It looks into leveraging strategies related to health, labour, education, welfare etc. towards overall growth of a nation and make it progressive and prosperous. For a developing country economy, it assumes more significance.

Rural Economics: Rural Economics looks into issues specific to rural areas which may be related to both farm and non-farm activities. Land use, rural wages, migration, rural urban divide and income disparities are studied and examined under this.

International Economics: This branch of economics is a field of study that deals with trade of goods and services between nations. In other words, international economics is a discipline of data analytics and there are diverse areas for research and fellowship in a number of subjects including economics and related subjects.

For those who are yet to pursue their higher studies, it will be better to evaluate their aptitude for the subject before they choose to join a course in economics.

ROLE OF MSMEs ...

Under this flagship scheme of the government, more than 11 crore loans totaling an amount of INR 4.5 lakh crore have been disbursed without bank collateral to create 3 crore new employment opportunities. Of the total loan accounts, 76 per cent are of women and more than 50 per cent belong to SCs, STs and OBCs.

To ensure access to latest technology for MSMEs so that they become innovative and globally competitive, government has launched a Credit Linked Capital Subsidy Scheme to provide upfront capital subsidy. A total of 48,618 units have been assisted utilizing subsidy of INR 2904.53 crore till November 2017. Cluster Development Programme (MSE-CDP) is a pioneering initiative to promote cluster-led development of the sector by creating common facility centers across the country. Common Facility Centers to ensure that MSME units can share them with each other. MSE Ministry also has a Technology Centre System (TCS), to upgrade existing TCs, at an estimated cost of INR 2200 crore with the support from World Bank.

Thirdly, to reduce transaction costs, a one-page Udyog Aadhar Memorandum has been launched to simplify the registration process for MSMEs so that they can avail the benefit of government schemes and formalize quickly to adapt to the GST regime. Two new engagement platforms have been launched- a MSME Sambandh portal for monitoring the public procurement policy of government for MSME units and a Technology Centre System portal to register cases for delayed payments.

The big thinking behind these initiatives is that our MSME sector must cater not just to India's needs but also to the global market. Prime Minister Shri Narendra Modi has given a clarion call of “Zero Defect, Zero Defect” to ensure that MSMEs undertake high-quality manufacturing as per international standards that is also environmentally sustainable. To quote Adi Zainuddhe (Chairman, Quality Council of India), "ZED will be for MSMEs what Startup India is for startups. After all, an MSME is a startup.”

The combined impact of government programs like Digital India, Smart Cities, Skill India, Make in India, Jan Dhan- Aadhaar- Mobile (JAM) trinity and Aadhar-Mobile (JAM) trinity and other such initiatives is to transform India into a knowledge economy in which technology-led startups will play a critical role. As the Prime Minister said at the ET Global Business Summit earlier this year, “The trinity of one billion bank accounts, one billion ATM cards, and one billion mobile phones will create an ecosystem that will be unique in the world.” To accelerate the growth of startups and create a culture of innovation in the country, the present government has undertaken far-reaching reforms across Ministries as part of its flagship initiative, Stand Up India, announced in July 2016. As part of the Start Up India Action Plan, 19 action points identified to improve access to capital and technology and reduce transaction costs for startups. For easy access to capital, a "fund of funds" was created with a corpus of INR 10,000 crores for SIDBI and Alternate Investment Funds to invest in startups. Income tax exemptions have been provided to startups for 3 years and to investors on capital gains from their investments. Startups were also freed from the SEZ Act and STPI Act and made exceptions to its listing norms so that startups can raise funds without going for an IPO. AIF Regulations have also been suitably amended to allow investors to support small startups that can not access capital through traditional sources like banks and NBFCs.

Ministry of Commerce and Industry has launched a “Startup India Virtual Hub” as a one stop solution to provide access to industry incubators, government programmes and networking opportunities within startup community. Some key decisions to reduce transaction costs include a compliance regime based on self-certification for environmental and labour laws so that startups are free from government inspections. Government-appointed facilitators now help startups with their patent and trademark filings. As of March 2018, 768 Startups have been facilitated for 80% rebate in patent filing fees. 858 Startups have availed 50% rebate in trademark filing fee.

One of the biggest challenges facing the startup ecosystem was ensuring easy exit for investors and entrepreneurs. The Ministry of Corporate Affairs has amended the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code to ensure that startups can wind up their businesses in 90 days compared to 180 days for other companies. A key difference in this government’s approach to startups is to ensure that new economic opportunities are distributed all over the country (including in Tier 2 and Tier 3 towns and also in remote and under served communities (especially women, SC and ST communities). For example, the Startup Yatra is an initiative of DIPP wherein a mobile van travels to tier 2/3 towns to identify and nurture entrepreneurial talent. Currently in Pradhan Mantri, the Yatra has previously been to Gujrat, Uttar Pradesh, Odisha, and Uttarakhand to create new centres of entre-preneurship beyond big cities like Bengaluru, Mumbai and Delhi.

Similarly, a National Schedule Caste and Schedule Tribes (SC/ST) Hub was launched by the Prime Minister in Ludhiana in 2016 to provide professional support and mentorship so they could leverage the Stand Up India initiative and the terms of Public Procurement Policy 2012 which stipulates that 4 percent of procurement done by ministries, Departments and CPSUs will have to be from MSMEs owned by SC/ST entrepreneurs. In order to assess the performance of States in promoting startups, Department of Industrial Policy and Promotion has issued detailed norms in the form of States’ Startup ranking framework in February 2018. This was done to create a spirit of healthy competition between states to encourage entrepreneurs and startups. The net impact of these far-reaching reforms has been that more than 11,234 startups have been registered by government so far and 16 states have prepared startup policies since October 2014. MSMEs remain the backbone of Indian economy and will have to play a decisive role if India is to achieve its goal of becoming a USD 5 trillion economy by 2022 and providing employment to 12 million young people every year. Similarly, India is already experiencing the benefits of a startup ecosystem and the youngest startup nation. These technology-based companies will be critical in the next chapter of India’s economic growth and solving the country’s social challenges. The good work done by government to support MSMEs and startups will create in a new generation of companies that will lead India’s growth in the next decade.
