FOCUS ON INDIA'S 'ACT EAST POLICY'

Dr. Raghubansh Sinha

India’s deepening ties with its extended neighbourhood as part of its Act East Policy was in focus during Prime Minister Mr. Narendra Modi's two-day visit to Singapore to attend the summit level meetings of East Asia, ASEAN-India and the Regional Comprehensive Economic Partnership (RCEP).

The Prime Minister underlined India’s vision for an enhanced multilateral cooperation with the 10-member ASEAN grouping while calling for an open and inclusive Indo-Pacific region during the 13th East Asia Summit. Delivering the keynote address at the Singapore Fintech Asia Summit, he reaffirmed India's Act East Policy. It includes the development of its Northeast states by boosting connectivity with ASEAN under India's Act East Policy. It includes the development of its Northeast states by boosting connectivity with ASEAN under India’s Act East Policy.

The Prime Minister also exchanged views on bilateral, regional and global issues with US vice-president Mike Pence, and his counterparts from Singapore, Thailand and Australia.

INDIA-ASEAN SUMMIT

Meeting ASEAN leaders during India-Asean Informal Summit, the Prime Minister reaffirmed India’s commitment to deepen economic and strategic relations with the economic grouping, which is India’s fourth largest trading partner, with two-way trade touching over US $ 81.33 billion. Connectivity, sustainable development, counter-terrorism, and maritime and cyber security are among the key areas of cooperation with ASEAN under India’s Act East Policy. It includes the development of its Northeast states by boosting connectivity with ASEAN and sub-regional grouping of Bay of Bengal Initiative for Multi-Sectoral Technical and Economic Cooperation (Bimstec).

Made up of seven nations lying in the littoral and adjacent areas of the Bay of Bengal, the Bimstec grouping’s objective is to promote economic, social and cultural cooperation in the region. India is the current Chair of Bimstec.

CAREER IN CAREER COUNSELLING

Shree Prakash Sharma

“...choose suitable career accordingly. Often what happens is that we commit mistakes making career decisions because we assess ourselves purely on unrealistic parameters. We design our career trajectory on the basis of what we dream and not on what we deserve. Moreover, we also get unduly impressed with the phony attraction of the various career options surrounding us. Sometimes, we also buckle under the parental pressure and get swayed by the social judoing. In this awkward situation, a candidate ends up choosing a career for which he is not at all suitable and nor mentally inclined. It is not a matter of any surprise that this sort of mistakes in choosing the unsuitable career option occurs because of the inadequate knowledge, emotional immaturity, peer pressure and high-demanding - parental - ambition. In fact, this is a very pernicious situation. Basically, our perception and psychology does not let us identify the individual differences which are so naturally found in each child. The days of the customary job opportunities like those of a doctor and engineer are on the gradual decline. In the post-reformed-induced-information technology age of the 21st century where the whole world has turned out to be a global village, it is really very soothing feeling that now there is no dearth of job opportunities across the countries in the world. As per the socio-behavioural and genetic differences in ability, personality, attitude, bent of mind and interests, each person can find himself fit for a score of job opportunities which have unfolded before the present generation. Therefore, the basic role of a career counselor is extending much-needed assistance and professional guidance to the people to help them choose the career as per their unique curricular and extra-curricular interests, behavioural pattern and personality traits.

However, in the wake of increasing demand for such type of counselors, career counseling course has also been incorporated in syllabus and there is provision of appointment of a career counselor in each school and college. A career counselor is responsible for providing the guidance to the students for their balanced physical, mental, psychic and psychological development so that they may move ahead towards the right career path at right time with right attitude.

Dr. Raghubhand Sinha

Prime Minister Mr. Narendra Modi's 12th meeting since 2014 with his Japanese counterpart Mr. Shinzo Abe is a reflection of the growing congruity in world view of India and Japan and mutually beneficial bilateral relations as they seek to combine their efforts to tackle emerging economic and security challenges. Mr. Modi's October 28-29 Japan visit reflects the transformed bilateral relations in the light of dynamic geo-strategic global order.

TRANSFORMED RELATIONS

India's relations with Japan have come a long way. The bilateral goodwill was always there, but it was complementarity -- as India remained a one way recipient of economic aid -- prevented the relationship from flowering into a key pillar of India's foreign policy. The beginning of the 21st century witnessed a dramatic transformation in ties which was upgraded to a 'Special Strategic and Global Partnership' during Prime Minister Mr. Modi's visit to Japan in 2014 for the 9th Annual Summit Meeting with his Japanese counterpart.

A landmark bilateral civil nuclear agreement in November 2016 opened the door for collaboration and export of atomic reactor technologies as well as provide finance for power plants in India. It reflected a new level of mutual confidence and strategic partnership in the cause of cleaner energy, economic development and a peaceful and secure world. Above all, the deal was indicative of support and trust for India as Japan remains very much dependent on India for its nuclear technology, being the only country to have faced atomic weapon attack by the US. Japan has been an important supporter of India's bid for membership in the crucial 48-member Nuclear Suppliers Group, which facilitates trade in nuclear technology around the world.

Based on the solid foundation of civilizational and centuries-old cultural links, India and Japan now seek to provide economic and political rationale to their deepening geo-strategic relations. The fact is that there are growing number of areas of convergence, complementarity and common vision between the two Asian powers. Therefore, after years of hedging, they seek to strengthen the already multi-faceted partnership, ranging from digital to cyberspace, health to defence, from oceans to space and agriculture to food processing. From reforming the United Nations Security Council to make it more relevant to the present world to keeping the Indo-Pacific ‘free and open’, they have agreed to collaborate their efforts. Underlining the importance of ASEAN, India and Japan voiced their support for peaceful resolution of disputes in accordance with the universally recognised principles of international law.

The Tokyo summit gave an opportunity to India's leaders to concretise its efforts to tackle emerging economic and security challenges. Agreements were signed on cooperation between the naval forces of the two countries, healthcare, digital and new technologies, and food processing. Japanese investors committed new $2.5 billion investments that is expected to help create some 30,000 jobs. The two sides signed seven loan agreements totalling 316.48 billion yen which will be utilised for the Mumbai-Ahmedabad high speed rail project for renovation and modernisation of Umtrum Umtri Stage-III hydroelectric power station in Meghalaya, the third phase of the Delhi Mass Rapid Transport System Project, nuclear energy connectivity improvement project in northeastern India, project for the construction of Turga-3 atomic station in Bangladesh, project for the construction of Chennai Peripheral Ring Road and project for sustainable catchment forest management in Tripura.

Reflecting the depth of economic relationship, India and Japan entered into a $75-billion bilateral currency swap agreement to help stabilise foreign exchange and help strengthen confidence in the Indian capital market. It will allow India to tap foreign capital for developmental needs as and when needed.

India firmly believes that ASEAN regional bloc has to play a central role in the Indo-Pacific region in the manner of India's Act East Policy and connectivity projects in the Northeast. India's role in development work in the Northeast is also expected to boost connectivity between the member-states of Bay of Bengal Initiative for Multi-Sectoral Technical and Economic Cooperation (Bimstec) sub-regional grouping. Made up of seven countries lying in the littoral and adjacent areas of the Bay of Bengal -- Bangladesh, Bhutan, India, Myanmar, Nepal, Sri Lanka and Thailand, Bimstec allows India to engage more with the extended neighbourhood in Southeast Asia under India's Neighbourhood First Policy via maritime connectivity.

India remains an important partner for the proposed Regional Comprehensive Economic Partnership (RCEP), which seeks to carve out a free trade agreement between the 10 Asean member states and the six states with which this regional bloc has existing free trade agreements - Australia, China, Japan, South Korea and New Zealand.

TAMING THE DRAGON

With China seeking to increase its influence in the Indo-Pacific region and intelligence in the South China Sea, Mr. Modi and Mr. Abe sketched out their common vision for the regions. They underlined the need for rules of order that respects sovereignty and territorial integrity of nations, ensures freedom of navigation and overflight as well as unimpeded lawful commerce and seeks peaceful resolution of disputes with full respect for legal and diplomatic processes in accordance with the universally recognised principles of international law, including those reflected in the UNCLOS (UN Convention for the Law of the Sea), without resorting to threat or use of force.

TRIHAL COOPERATION

With China in mind, India and Japan sought to concretise a plan to provide an alternative to China and Russia's "predatory"chink in China's "belt and road" diplomacy. Amid efforts by China to expand its influence around the world, particularly in India's troubled neighbourhood, India and Japan hope that the trilateral cooperation to collaborate in Indo-Pacific in Asia and in Africa on capacity building and on infrastructure projects in a trilateral format -- India, Japan plus one. Among the key agreements, they committed to consultations with host governments to foster tangible cooperation focusing on development of infrastructure, ports and other infrastructure in the Indo-Pacific.

"This synergy is embodied in collaborative projects between India and Japan in the Indo-Pacific region, including in Sri Lanka, Myanmar and Bangladesh as well as in Africa," said the India - Japan Vision Statement released after the summit. India, Japan plus one format reflects the high level and strength of the bilateral economic engagement.

India and Japan hope that the trilateral format will help check China's growing influence in the region through Chinese President Xi Jinping's pet Belt and Road Initiative (BRI) project. India and Japan have been keeping a close watch on the Chinese BRI on the grounds that the project has failed to respect the territorial integrity and sovereignty of the affected nations and has put participating nations in debt traps with loan contracts shrouded in mystery. China has been dismissive of India's objection to China Pakistan Economic Corridor (CPEC) of Bengal - Bangladesh, Bhutan, India, Myanmar, Nepal, Sri Lanka and Thailand, Bimstec is the new springboard for India's engagement with the extended region. India's position in South Asia under its Neighbourhood First Policy via northeastern India.

Secretary

Using centuries-old cultural linkages India has reaped the inherent immense economic potential in the relationship. India has now added strategic importance to ties with Asean and the East Asia region. Relations with Asean have grown since India became its Sectoral-level partner in 1992, an important milestone in India's economic reform process.

In the past two decades, India-Asean relationship has become the most vibrant partnership. India's Act East Policy. Based on India's search for economic space following the dramatic transformation in world political and geo-strategic scenarios since 9/11 and the collapse of Soviet Union -India's 'Look East Policy' has today matured into a dynamic and active engagement with the region.

Over the last decade, India has taken several policy initiatives to deepen its economic engagement with Asean. Key initiatives include the East Asia Summit, BIMSTEC, Indian-Ocean Rim Association and Mekong-Ganga Cooperation at the sub-regional level.

The deepening relationship was symbolized in the year-long celebration to mark Asean-India 25 years of Diplomatic relations, 15 years of summit level interaction and five years of strategic partnership. It culminated in Prime Minister Modi's visit to Asean leaders attending the 69th Republic Day Parade in an unprecedented gesture.

East Asia Summit

India's participation in the East Asia Summit is a natural corollary of its growing multi-faceted engagement with Asean and common desire for enhancing economic and security cooperation in East Asia. Prime Minister Modi attended the 13th East Asia Summit, an important forum in the Indo-Pacific region comprising the 10 Asean member states -- Brunei, Cambodia, Indonesia, Laos, Malaysia, Myanmar, Singapore, Thailand, the Philippines and Vietnam - and its eight dialogue partners -- India, China, Japan, South Korea, Australia, New Zealand, the US and Russia.

Early this year in June, Prime Minister Mr. Modi had forcefully outlined India's vision of the Indo-Pacific during his speech at the Shangri-La Dialogue in Singapore. He used the East Asia Summit in Singapore to further build upon the theme. He stressed on the centrality of Asean's role for peace and prosperity in the Indo-Pacific region, which extends from the eastern coast of Africa to the eastern coast of Japan. He underlined the need for rules-based order that respects sovereignty and territorial integrity of nations, ensures freedom of navigation and overflight as well as unimpeded lawful commerce, and seeks to maintain the balance of power with full respect for legal and diplomatic processes in accordance with the universally recognised principles of international law and those resorting to threat or use of force.

Growing tension in South East Asia as a result of competing claims to islands in the South China Sea has sparked concern that it could lead to unintended military conflict. Several experts predict an escalating situation especially after China has aggressively undertaken infrastructure construction and military bases on several disputed islands and reefs in the South China Sea. China is embroiled in disputes over the Scarborough Shoal with the Philippines, and over the Spratly islands with Brunei, Malaysia, the Philippines, Taiwan and Vietnam.

Conveniently, China now calls for framing of a 'code of conduct' in a bid to play down the simmering differences with its neighbors.

QuAD Meeting

Concern over China's unilateralism and aggressive behavior is shared by several nations in the region and beyond. In the past several months, China's neighbours and members of Quadilateral Security Dialogue or Quad - comprising India, the US, Australia, and Asean, have expressed concern over China's "preatory" chequebook diplomacy" which threatens to push nations into debt trap up by using geo-strategic power balance around the world in the name of creating infrastructure projects.

First mooted by Japanese Prime Minister Shinzo Abe in 2007, the idea of the grouping of the four "like-minded" democracies was put on the back-burner after protests by China which claimed Quad's partners aimed at stifling the communist nations growth and influence. Officials of the Quad held consultations on Singapore on the sideline of the East Asia Summit. Though India has been reluctant to highlight the military cooperation, other members of the Quad, particularly US and Australia, have expressed the Quad's plan to step up the agenda to prevent China from dominating Indo-Pacific region through use of force.

Reports have suggested that the four nation partnership discussed regional and global issues of common interest, including the situation in Sri Lanka and the Maldives. Though peaceful political transition seems imminent in Maldives, Bangladesh's Prime Minister Mohammad Solih was sworn in on November 17, India has been concerned with signs of instability in both these South Asian neighbours, where China has increased its influence in the last decade.

Media reports suggested that the discussions focused on cooperation in areas such as economy, connectivity, development, counter-terrorism, non-proliferation and maritime and cyber security, with a view to promoting peace, stability and prosperity.

RCEP Agreement

In the past, the leaders of Asean and India had expressed concern over the mainstaying of people involved in 2008 Mumbai terror attacks, a reference to Pakistan'sinbox attack in February 2019 contesting the general elections in Pakistan in July.

The Trump administration has repeatedly called on Pakistan for not doing enough to combat terrorism both in its country and the neighborhood. "The United States has foolishly given Pakistan more than 33 billion dollars in aid over the last 15 years, and they have given us nothing but lies and deceit, thinking of our leaders as fools. They give safe haven to the terrorists we hunt in Afghanistan, with little help. No more!" Trump had written in his first tweet of 2018. FINTECH FESTIVAL

The Prime Minister showcased India as one of the top nations in fintech adoption. Highlighting the importance of cybersecurity for safe and secure online transactions at the Singapore Fintech Festival, Modi launched APIX, an online portal to connect fintech firms and financial institutions, beginning with Asean and Indian banks and fintech companies. "To begin with financial inclusion has become a reality for 1.3 billion Indians. We have generated more than 1.2 billion biometric identities -- called Aadhaar or foundation -- in just a few years!" Modi said at the world's largest financial technology festival, which was launched in 2016. India set up a pavilion with the highest number of companies at the exhibition.

HACKATHON

MoDi attended the "Grande Finale" of the first-ever India-Singapore Hackathon on platform expected to boost technology, innovation and youth power. The Indian leader presented awards to the six winning teams -- three each from India and Singapore. Team from Indian Institute of Technology Kharagpur (IIT Kharagpur), National Institute of Technology, Tiruchirappalli (NIT Trichy) and MIT College of Architecture, Pune, were the Indian winners. Nanyang Technological University (NTU) and the Singapore University of Technology and Design (SUTD) were among the winning teams from Singapore.

Quite clearly, India is determined to deepen its economic and security engagements with the Asean regional bloc under New Delhi's Act East Policy which dictates "a free and open inclusive" Indo-Pacific. Centr-ally of trade and investment, connectivity, sustainable development, maritime and cyber security and counter-terrorism are the key pillars of engagement with the extended neighborhood in Southeast Asia under India's Neighbourhood First Policy.

SECURITY CHALLENGES

Defence and security cooperation is another area of bilateral agreement. In what cooperation, the two countries agreed to institute Foreign and bilateral agreement. In what cooperation is another area of territory.

The Quad is seen as a move to counter China’s aggressive behaviour in the Indo-Pacific area. In a bid to enhance the strategic depth of bilateral security and defence cooperation, the two countries also agreed to strengthen naval cooperation. India and Japan, already with the US, regularly hold the Malabar naval exercises. According to the Vision Statement, they now seek to step up joint exercise between all three of the defence services of the two countries and the commencement of negotiations on the Acquisition and Cross-Servicing Agreement (ACSA), a military logistics pact that will enhance strategic depth and defence cooperation. ACSA will allow Japan to refuel and resupply its ships at Indian naval bases on the Andaman and Nicobar islands near the Malacca Straits, a maritime choke point through which seaborne trade passes to ports in China and Japan.

TERROR THREAT

Japan and India also showcased their determination to face the challenges of terrorism together. They agreed to “strengthening cooperation against terrorist threats from groups including Al Qaeda, ISIS (Islamic State), Jaish-e-Mohammad, Laskhar-e-Tayiba, and their affiliates”. They called upon Pakistan to bring to justice the perpetrators of terrorist attacks, including those of November 2008 in Mumbai and January 2016 in Pathankot.

FUTURE PROSPECT

India is the largest democracy in Asia and Japan, the most prosperous. With bilateral ties singularly free of any kind of dispute -ideological, cultural or territorial-there is immense goodwill in both the nations to make India-Japan relations one of the key pillars of their foreign and security policy in the coming decades. The fact is bilateral economic relations have vast potential for growth, given the complementarities that exist between the two Asian economies.

Japan’s interest in India is on the upswing due to factors ranging from large and growing market and its resources, especially the human resources, and its ability to play a crucial role in facing security challenges in the Indo-Pacific region. However, amid fast changing global geo-strategic situation, the crucial challenge for the leadership of the two Asian powerhouse is to remain focused and provide momentum to the bilateral relationship which has the potential to shape the 21st century, which could also become the ‘Asian century’.
