Shreya Bhattacharya

March 8 marks the International Women's day, a day to celebrate the social, economic, cultural and political achievements of women, a day to evaluate the status of women in the society, and also a day to call for accelerating gender equality. The theme for this year is "Think equal, build smart, innovate for change". It focuses on innovative ways in which we can advance gender equality and the empowerment of women, particularly in the areas of social protection systems, access to public services and sustainable infrastructure. Gender Equality has become one of the most central concerns of the 21st century. This article will look into the issue of gender equality and women empowerment and their various aspects in the present scenario.

Gender

Gender refers to socially constructed identities, and roles for women and men. They are not just personal identities; rather these are social identities. They arise from our relationships to other people, and depend upon social interaction and social recognition. It is learnt from birth through childhood socialisation. One example of socially constructed differences is, women's role in most societies has traditionally been to take care of the household, and the children, whereas the role of men has been to work outside home, be the bread-earner for his family, and thus, becoming head of the family. Gender constructions are, however, not static, but dynamic and fluid. They vary from culture to culture, and also keep changing over time. We learn what is expected of our gender from what our parents teach us, as well as what we pick up at school, through religious or cultural teachings, in the media, and various other social institutions. The political, social, economic, cultural, religious and other factors create hierarchical relationships between women and men in a society. Historically, the distribution of resources, power and rights has been in favor of men, while disadvantage women. They have been excluded from the decision making process. From the beginning of time, there have been denied even such basic rights as access to literacy and property.

Glaring Inequalities

Inequality on the basis of gender constitutes one of the history's most persistent and widespread forms of injustice. Women and girls continue to suffer discrimination and violence in every part of the world. This inequality exists in every sector. In South Asia, only 74 girls were enrolled in primary school for every 100 boys in 1990. However, by 2012, the enrolment ratios were the same. Instead of attending class, millions of girls and women around the world spend 200 hours each day fetching water that is often dirty and dangerous for their health. In 155 countries, at least one law exists imposing severe economic opportunities. The gender pay gap costs global economy $160 trillion. Only 23.7% of all national parliamentarians are women. One in three women experience some form of physical or sexual violence in their lifetimes. The International Labour Organization (ILO) estimates that there are 20.9 million victims of human trafficking globally, 55% of whom are women and girls.

As per the Gender Gap Report, 2018 published by World Economic Forum, when it comes to political and economic leadership by women, the world still has a long way to go. Across the 149 countries assessed, there were only 17 that had women as heads of state, while, on average, just 18% of ministers and 24% of parliamentarians globally were women. Similarly, women held just 34% of managerial positions across the countries where data was available, and less than 7% in the four worst-performing countries (Egypt, Saudi Arabia, Yemen and Pakistan).

CAREER IN ACTUARIAL SCIENCE

Usha Albuquerque & Nidhi Prasad

Actuaries are experts in evaluating the likelihood of events, including numbers, not crystal balls. If you enjoy playing with numbers and analyzing data, interpreting statistics and you are ambitious, then a career in Actuarial Science might be just what you are looking for. A choice that promises a successful career and a handsome salary. Actuarial science is the discipline that applies mathematical and statistical methods to assess risk in insurance, finance and other industries and professions. Actuarial Science as a field is all about analysis, computation, logic and data. From designing insurance policies to solving business problems, Actuaries are in demand. A course in actuarial sciences equips you to scientifically assess risk in various fields, but mainly in insurance, business and finance. Actuaries are an important component of risk-assessment as well as risk-management for any organization. They use various statistical, mathematical and computational methodologies to give their assessment. Some of the job responsibilities of this job profile in life and general insurance business include designing and pricing of policies, monitoring the funds, recommending fair rate of bonus where applicable, insurance risks like legal liability, loss of life, etc.

Actuaries are professionals trained in this discipline. An actuary is a business professional who analyzes the financial consequences of risk. Actuaries use mathematics, statistics, and financial theory to study uncertain future events, especially those of concern to insurance and pension programs. Actuarial science is one of highly paid profession. What Actuarial Scientist Do?

If you have a car, you would have car insurance. How old are you? How old is your car? With every successive year, as the car ages, the value of the car also goes down. How does the rising price of petrol affect the usage of the car? What is the popularity of wines, cost to repair etc. All these and more factors are considered by an Actuary. Actuaries analyze different types of data to calculate and manage risk. They, thus, help companies form efficient policies by protecting themselves from uncertain and undesirable future events. Actuaries are required in any field where risk is involved, including banking, insurance, healthcare, and even non-financial areas.

Their ability to analyze data to understand risk makes them especially useful in the field of insurance. Actuaries are the masterminds behind insurance policies. They analyze facts, figures, and trends to formulate various insurance programs. The work responsibilities of Actuaries include the following:

- Designing financial policies and monitoring if there are enough funds in the company.
- Determining the rate of interest to be given to customers for insurance policies.
- Keeping a check on insurance risks to minimize losses.
- Predicting the occurrence of various illnesses such as heart disease, cancer, etc., among different groups, to inform changes when designing insurance policies.
- Assessing risk for the financial planning of the company.

An actuary in India works in the following fields:

- Life Insurance
- General Insurance
- Health Insurance
- Reinsurance Companies
- Pension Funds
- Consultants
- Assessments
- Government
- Academics
- Risk Management

The role that an actuary can perform in each of these sectors can be quite varied, such as product pricing, financial modelling, valuations, risk management, carrying out peer reviews, designing social security schemes, advise on the premium to be charged etc.

Conclusion

Gender equality is a fundamental human right, and it is essential for the full realization of human rights and the full and complete development of all individuals. Gender equality is not only a human rights issue, but also an economic issue. Women and girls continue to suffer discrimination and violence in every part of the world. To achieve gender equality, we must address the root causes of gender inequality, including cultural norms and practices, and structural barriers such as lack of access to education, economic opportunities, and political participation. We must also support women and girls in their efforts to achieve their full potential and lead fulfilling lives. This includes providing them with equal access to healthcare, education, and economic opportunities, as well as ensuring that they have equal rights and protections under the law.

Women and girls continue to suffer discrimination and violence in every part of the world, and this inequality exists in every sector. In South Asia, only 74 girls were enrolled in primary school for every 100 boys in 1990. However, by 2012, the enrolment ratios were the same. Instead of attending class, millions of girls and women around the world spend 200 hours each day fetching water that is often dirty and dangerous for their health. In order to make the broadcasting market more competitive, Telecom Regulatory Authority of India (TRAI), has issued new tariff plans for cable and DTH operators. The new rules try to empower the consumers to make their own choices regarding TV channels and no operator can force them to watch channels/bouquet of packages whose content they don’t like. In this backdrop, TRAI’s new framework came into effect from 29th December 2018 but the deadline was again extended to 31st January 2019, in order to provide sufficient time to subscribers to make channel selection. Further in a Press Release dated 12th February the Authority extended the time limit for the subscribers who have not exercised their option up to 31st March 2019. It is believed that if consumer’s exercise their option wisely and select their channels on the basis of quality of programming, they will get value for money and their existing bill on TV watching would also come down.

Chamberlin in his book “The Theory of Monopolistic Competition” has also written about markets where there are large number of players selling differentiated products, consumer welfare is maximum. Although in the history of broadcasting it is the first time that the Indian consumer has been given the freedom to watch TV channels which they like and pay accordingly. It is believed that it would be a win-win situation for both sellers and consumers.

There are around 100 million cable service TV homes and 67 million DTH TV homes as reported on 12th February 2019, out of which around 65 per cent of the subscribers of cable services and 35 per cent of the DTH subscribers were facing difficulties in creating their options. Many subscribers reported that they were not made aware about this switch over by their operators and they did not have IT facility to exercise their option up to 31st March 2019. In order to provide sufficient time to subscribers to make channel selection. Further in a Press Release dated 12th February the Authority extended the time limit for the subscribers who have not exercised their option up to 31st March 2019. It is believed that if consumer’s exercise their option wisely and select their channels on the basis of quality of programming, they will get value for money and their existing bill on TV watching would also come down.

TRAI in its statement reported that some Peaks, local cable operators (LCOs) have not been able to reach out to subscribers to create awareness among them and collect the options. Many subscribers reported that they were not made aware about this switch over by their operators and they did not have IT facility to exercise their option up to 31st March 2019. TRAI’s NEW TARIFF RULES EMPOWER CONSUMERS TO MAKE RIGHT CHOICE OF THEIR TV CHANNELS

Dr. Sheetal Kapoor

TRAI has further clarified that the Network Capacity Fee for second television/additional television in same home or location is not mandatory. The operators are free to offer discount or waiver for the entire fee but the same discount would be the same for a particular target area with regard to Network Capacity Fee (NCW) on second/additional TV connections at home.

The new framework also allows the consumers to change their plans if they feel that a particular package/plan is not working. Customised packages and a-la-carte are some new things which would add to customer’s experience. TRAI has even elucidated that there would be no ‘lock-in period’ for the subscribers till March 31, 2019, after which they have been migrated to ‘Best Fit Plan’ by the operators. Thus, the operators cannot force subscribers to continue with the Best Fit plan, if they choose their own customised plan. However, this is a beginning and the situation may evolve with prices charged by broadcasters and operators declining depending on market forces. The situation is a win-win situation for both sellers and buyers. The consumer is open to make choices amongst them. After the TRAI order, all broadcasters like Sony, Zee, Star, Discovery, Sun, Air channels, or Pay channels or bouquet TV channels.TRAI has further clarified that the Network Capacity Fee for second television/additional television in same home or location is not mandatory. After the TRAI order, all broadcasters like Sony, Zee, Star, Discovery, Sun, Turner and Viacom have declared prices of their individual pay channels as well as those of bouquets. Thus, a major change now is that the customers have the right to choose between a-la-carte and bouquet TV channels.

TRAI has requested all the DPOs to create a ‘Best Fit Plan’ for their subscribers who have not exercised their options yet and has extended the time up to Mar 31st 2019. The plan should be designed based on consumers’ usage pattern, language spoken and popularity of channels. While designing the plan, DPOs should ensure that payout per month generally does not exceed the payout per month of existing tariff plan of the subscriber.

TRAI in a press release on January 10th stated that customers have complete freedom to choose the 100 free channels (SD resolution), which would be offered in the base pack of Rs 130 (exclusive of taxes). The chosen channels could be in a-la-carte, Free to Air channels, or Pay channels but the operators should ensure that any combination thereof. Consumer is open to make choices amongst them. How to become an Actuary?

1. Take up Commerce with IAI by clearing the ACET exam.
   - Actuaries in India need to pass the ACET exam.
   - These examinations are conducted by the IAI. There are no regular exams, only practical exams that are required to be cleared.

2. Pursue your graduation in Maths, Statistics or B.Com or Actuarial Science or Those who have completed their post graduation in these subjects are also eligible for admission. Engineers in any discipline and those who have completed CA/CS/CWA/MBA (Finance/CA) are also eligible to get admission to a professional course in Actuarial Science. There is no specific eligibility requirement for graduation in any discipline but B.Sc Mathematics and B.Sc Statistics are recommended courses. They will allow you to form a basic understanding of mathematics, probability concepts, analytical and problem-solving skills, and statistical analyses in all the foundations of Actuarial Science.

3. Take the Actuarial Common Entrance Test (ACET). The first step to becoming a member of the Institute of Actuaries of India (IAI) and becoming a practicing Actuary is to clear their entrance exam - Actuarial Common Entrance Test (ACET). You can appear for the entrance exam as soon as you complete your class 12th or even if you are a graduate/postgraduate.

4. There are other courses as well, ones that allow you to work in this field directly, including B.Sc. (Actuarial Science) and M.Sc. (Actuarial Science) courses, which can start working directly after these courses; however, it is advisable to clear the Actuarial Science levels too.

5. Clear Actuarial Science Stages:
   - There are 15 papers in all divided into four stages. One is required to clear all the papers (9 in total) from Core Technical, all 3 papers from Core Application, any 2 out of 6 from Specialist Technical (ST) and any 1 out of 6 from Specialist Application after clearing all the papers in the first two stages, the candidate becomes an Associate and after clearing all the papers in all four series the Associate gets Fellowship status.

6. Since Actuarial Science is a professional course, you are required to clear different examinations/stages to pursue this field. These examinations written as well as practical exams conducted by the IAI. There are no regular colleges or classes for this course, only examinations that you are required to clear.

7. Once you clear the first two stages, you are tentatively Associate with the IAI. On clearing all 4 stages, and acquiring 3 years of experience, you become a Fellow. As a fellow, you can pursue further studies and research in the field.

8. Fully qualified professionals of various bodies such as:
   - The Institute of Chartered Accountants of India
   - The Institute of Cost and Works Accountants of India
   - Certified Institute of Financial Analysts of India
   - Fellow of Insurance Institute of India

Exemptions from the ACET Exam

You can be allowed to skip the ACET exam altogether. These bodies include The Institute and Faculty of Actuaries (IFoA), UK; Casualty Actuarial Society and The Institute of Actuaries of Australia. Students in India prefer to apply for the IFoA as the papers offered are relatively easier, although they lose some percentage and the cost for taking exams are much higher.

SKILLS REQUIRED

Actuarial Science is not an easy route to follow, and the process of becoming an Actuary is long. So before you take the leap into this career, you should check whether you possess certain important skills or not.

You Should Pursue this Career if:

- You are able to work with huge amounts of data.
- You have a strong hold on calculus, statistics and probability concepts.
- You have strong analytical skills.
- You are comfortable dealing with huge amounts of data.
- You can work for long durations at a stretch.
- Actuaries are expected to be good at mathematics, statistics and possess good modeling skills.
- You should have a good understanding of the business environment, economics, financial markets and accounts is a must.
- You should be equipped with good computer and communication skills.

Career Opportunities in Actuarial Science in following sectors:

- Insurance Sector
- Business Sector
- Banking and Financial Services
- Health and Medical Sector

Actuarial Science is one of the most popular careers among those who have a knack for numbers, statistics and data. It is a field with immense scope, if you have the right set of skills and analytical abilities.

You can work in multiple areas in both private and government sectors. Within the field of insurance, you can work in different areas, such as health insurance, vehicle insurance, employee retirement and benefit plans, private insurance and so on. Besides insurance companies, one can work in Pension and Benefits firms.

An MBA in Actuarial Science or Actuarial Science will give you the expertise to manage insurance and risk projects and ensure their smooth functioning. One can even work as a consultant and advise businesses in multiple areas such as life insurance, taxation, employee benefits, risk management, investment, etc.

SOME OF THE COLLEGES OFFERING COURSES IN ACTUARIAL SCIENCE

Giving women more autonomy to redress power imbalances and promoting gender equality is the survival. An important aspect of attainment, and health and economic opportunity, political life. This needs to be attained equivalently in terms of rights, different but which is considered treatment or treatment that is needs. This may include equal treatment for women and men, and needs. This may include equal treatment for women and men, girls and women and boys, enjoy the same rights, responsibilities, and needs of women and men are considered, valued and favoured equally. It does not mean that women and men are treated exactly alike, but that their rights, responsibilities and opportunities will not depend on whether they are born male or female. Gender equality means fairness of treatment for women and men according to their respective needs. This may include equal treatment or treatment that is different but which is considered equivalent in terms of rights, benefits, obligations and opportunities.

Gender equality means equal opportunity and equal access to resources and rewards for both women and men for their full participation in all aspects of life. This needs to be attained across four key sectors: economic opportunity, political empowerment, educational attainment, and health and survival. An important aspect of promoting gender equality is the empowerment of women, with a focus on identifying and redressing the legal, policy, giving women more autonomy to manage their own lives.

Women Empowerment

Women's empowerment is critical to women's equality. It is the skill of women to exercise full control over their activities. It means control over income-generating capacities and material resources, and even over their philosophies. Women are missing such control in different fields of employment and are segregated on account of their gender. Women have not been empowered against women create a pitiless cycle of inequity that keeps them from satisfying their maximum capacity.

Empowerment is the helping tool for women to attain equality of life and thought. It is the power of women to reduce gender bias noticeably. Women play an important role in the development of different sectors and contribute for economic improvement in the visible and invisible form. Hence there is a need of intellectual, economical and cultural empowerment of women simultaneously to remove this cyclic women, who have been entrapped very badly. The actual truth is dreadful perceptions and exploitation of women specially women from deprived sections of the society that belong to the rural areas.

Constitutional & Legal Provisions for Women Empowerment in India

After the independence of India in 1947, the constitution makers felt that it is necessary to give equal social position of women with men. The Constitution of India guarantees equality of opportunity to men and women in respect of their entry into any occupation or profession. It also guarantees against discrimination against any citizen on the ground of sex, while Article 15 (3) guarantees that the state shall not discriminate against any citizen on the ground of sex. Article 16 (1) guarantees equality of opportunity in matters of public employment, to all citizens of India on the basis of sex or caste. Article 16 (2) guarantees that the state shall make reasonable steps to implement these provisions.

The EWS Scheme

The EWS Scheme (Economically Weaker Sections) is a social welfare programme of the Government of India. It aims to provide reservation in education and employment for students and graduates of lower economic strata. The scheme provides reservation in residential institutions, educational institutions, and employment opportunities in government and private sectors.

In short, women empowerment is an essential step towards achieving gender equality. It requires a comprehensive approach that addresses various aspects such as legal reforms, economic opportunities, educational opportunities, and social norms. By empowering women, we can contribute to the overall development and progress of society.

In a series of tweets, Minister for Water Resources Nitin Gadkari said, Government of India will divert water from Eastern rivers and supply it to the people in Jammu and Kashmir and Punjab. According to the Indus Waters Treaty, subject to certain conditions, India has the right to use water flowing in eastern rivers, namely, the Beas, the Ravi and the Sutlej while Pakistan controls the right to use water in western rivers, namely, the Indus, the Jhelum and the Chenab.

Prime Minister Narendra Modi has received the prestigious Seoul Peace Prize - 2018 for his contribution to international cooperation and fostering global economic growth. The award was presented to him by the Seoul Peace Prize Foundation at a grand ceremony in Seoul. A short film on the life and achievements of Prime Minister Modi was also screened at the event. While conferring the award on Modi, the award committee recognised his contribution to the growth of Indian and global economies, creditting "Modinomics" for reducing social and economic disparity between the rich and the poor. Prime Minister dedicated the award to the 1.3 billion people of India.

Prime Minister Narendra Modi has said that time has come for Global community to move beyond words and act unidly against menace of terrorism. Addressing the joint press conference after delegation level talks with South Korean President Moon Jae In in Seoul, he said that India and Korea are committed to further strengthen bilateral and international coordination against terrorism. Prime Minister thanked President Moon for his support to India after Pulwama terror attack. He further said that both the countries have also agreed for a roadmap in Defense technology and co-production.

India and Saudi Arabia have agreed to cooperate further in the fight against terrorism and put pressure on those countries which are supporting terror to deal with its growing threat. Prime Minister Narendra Modi has said. In his press statement after talks with Crown Prince of Saudi Arabia Mohammad Bin Salman bin Abdulaziz Al Saud in New Delhi, Prime Minister said, Saudi Arabia is one of the most crucial strategic partners of India and both the countries will further increase their cooperation in the defence sector and improve their economic ties. In his press statement, Crown Prince said his country will cooperate with India in its fight against terrorism. Prime Minister Mohammad said both countries can collaborate in several areas, including agriculture and culture. The two countries signed five agreements in various areas.

The United Nations Security Council (UNSC) has urged the international community to co-operate actively with India in bringing the perpetrators, organizers, financiers and sponsors of terrorism to justice. In a statement, the 15-nation body, which also includes China, strongly condemned the terror attack in Jammu and Kashmir’s Pulwama that claimed the lives of over 40 CRPF personnel last week. The UNSC members expressed their deepest sympathy and condolences to the families of the victims, as well as to the Indian people and the government, and wished a speedy and full recovery to those injured. The UNSC termed the attack as heinous and cowardly. The condemnation also named the Pakistan-based terror group Jaish-e-Mohammed which claimed responsibility for the attack.

Swachh Bharat - Sankalp Se Siddhi' showcasing the journey of Swachh Bharat Mission

Swachh Bharat - Sankalp Se Siddhi, a book published by Publication & Divison, Ministry of Information & Broadcasting, showcases the remarkable journey of the Swachh Bharat Mission from a behaviour change programme to the world's largest people's movement. The e-book was launched by Prime Minister Shri Narendra Modi at Swachh Shakti 2019 event in Kurukshetra, Haryana on February 12, 2019. Swachh Bharat Mission was launched on 2nd October 2014 throughout length and breadth of the country as a national movement. The campaign aims to achieve the vision of a 'Clean India' by 2nd October 2019. The book illustrates how the dynamic leadership of the Prime Minister exorted and motivated people to fulfil Mahatma Gandhi's dream of a clean and hygienic India. The book spreads the messages and thoughts of the Prime Minister on Swachh Bharat, calling upon citizens to become active participants in cleanliness activities across the nation. The Clean Indian Movement has evoked a sense of responsibility among the people. With citizens now becoming active participants in cleanliness activities across the nation, the dream of a 'Clean India' once seen by Mahatma Gandhi has begun to get a shape. The book is available on www.amazon.in.
