I used for packaging like water. percent of the plastic produced is wheelers and for clothing, etc. It is also used in cars, two household furnitures, goods of all kinds, cellphones, down. showing no trend of slowing ‘house use’ during 2018. The of plastic was produced for North America and the Europe. In India about 178 million tones of plastic, followed by China makes the largest tonnes of plastic, that was more of the 9.1 billion tonnes of University of Georgia calculates waste’ immediately. A study by reports mentions that the vast collection of the most plastic stuff as it does not give anything. Nearly 7 billion plastic produced, nearly 7 billion tons are no longer used. That, only 9 percent got recycled and another 12 percent was incinerated; leaving 5.5 billion tons of it being dumped as waste on land and in water. Unlike other material, plastic is such a stuff as it does not give way and crack. Therefore, nearly 75 percent of this stuff results in waste; lying scattered on the land, dumped in the landfills and made floating in the lakes, rivers and oceans. Ocean of Plastic Waste: A study published in Scientific Reports mentions that the vast dumps of bottles, children toys, broken electronic, containers, abandoned fishing nets and microparticles swirling in the Paciﬁc Ocean is more than France, Germany and Spain combined. Nearly 80,000 tones of plastic have been found, which is equal to the weight of 500 Jumbo Jets. This is 16 times greater the plastic -mass uncovered previously. More than eight million tones of plastic enter the oceans every year, accumulating in five giant garbage patches around the planet. Plastic Ban: Plastic waste is a big issue today. To rid the environment of this menace, which has been going up in the food-chain, the European Union proposed ban on single-use plastics, stirrers, ballon sticks and cotton buds. It has urged the collection of the most plastic bottles by 2025. The proposals call for the member states to reduce use of plastic food containers and drinking cups. Food chain is affected most by the problem of plastic, all over the world. Sea turtles are killed by the amount of rubbish and so is affected the wildlife. To meet the challenge of global marine population, Britain committed £ 61.4 (Rs. 576 crores) for sake of global research and to improve waste-management in developing countries. In India, several state govs. have strictly enforced the ban on use of plastic. In Uttar Pradesh, the High Court had directed in 2015, to issue notification enforcing complete ban on plastic. Govt. had issued an ordinance on the manufac- turing and use of polystyrene less than 50 micron, plastic bags and thermocol. From August 15, 2016 manufacturing, storage and distribution of cup, plate, glass and spoon etc. from plastic and thermocol have been banned completely. Any defiance of this order entails ﬁne up to Rs. 25,000/- and jail term. Bestrewing plastic material on roads, in drains, lakes, rivers and oceans are also punish-able. Railway department had also accepted to implement this ban to save the environment. Alternatives: People perceive, the scheme is ‘good’ but feel, the substitutes will cost more. There come up with a Plan B for him. Here are some of the questions such students ask me and my response to their questions: I scored 95% in Class 10 and then chose Maths stream because that what all the intelligent children around me were doing. Now, my Class 12 board exams are just round the corner. I have slogged so hard in my engineering coaching and my teachers have high hopes from me. I don’t want to be an engineer but I don’t want to look like a fool by not appearing for JEE exams now. Do you suggest? Psychology says that humans are hardwired to seek approval from others around them - be it their parents, friends, relatives or colleagues. They also feel a need to stand by the decision they make even if it seems stupid for a while. Dr. Robert Cialdini’s book ‘Influence: The Psychology of Persuasion’ discusses this at length. Fortunately, we also have the power to recognise these is great shortage of polyethylene options and even what is available, there is great disparity in prices. The prices of Cloth and jute bags have shot up very high, having financial strain on them, cloth bags, usually available earlier for Rs. 300-400 are being sold up to Rs. 1000-1500 by the shops. Roadside eateries are costlier now, with the increase of cost in plastic. Contractors at drinking points, restaurants, cafes, dhabas resort more than shop managers. There is need to make economically, cheap products to serve food at the same cost. Use of milk, in place of plastic bowls, makes the dishes costlier. Durable newspaper or cloth bag, reusable glasses and crockeries are needed for delivery work. Lack of sustainable alternatives is guiding the very purpose of saying ‘no to plastic’.

The newly constituted Matikala Board in Uttar Pradesh is promoting use of Kulfads (clay cups) as alternative to plastic. State govt. will make available land - pattas, free electricity and free transfer of technology to the artisans; besides waiving off all the taxes. Special skill schools will also be set up. This will be environment friendly measure, as also will provide economic benefits to the potters community, numbering about two crore of the U.P’s population.

How Damaging? : Owing to the ingredients used, 6 kg CO₂ is generated in the manufacture of 1 kg plastic these products are harmful. For instance in Maharashtra, 1800 kg CO₂ pollution was generated by each family, because of the use of plastic over 15 years. And 24 crore trees needed to absorb the quantity of CO₂ generated by the State’s 4 crore families in 15 years.

Buyback Mechanism: In Maharashtra State 3400 tonnes of plastic-waste is generated each day. During the 15 years, 131.4 lakh tonnes have been generated. To tackle the problem, Maharashtra Govt. has introduced a buyback scheme for waste-plastics, like that being implemented in 40 countries overseas, includes U.S, Germany and Norway etc. U.K. is also planning to launch it soon. Under the scheme, manufacturers should charge a refundable amount from the purchaser of the bottled or pouched product of plastic. The deposit will be refunded once the bottle is despatched to the retailer or with the reverse vending machines. It is a plan of collecting and recycling PET (polyethylene terephthalate) bottles and milk pouches lies with the manufacturers. Recycling has been made manufacturing license norm in the Plastic Waste Management Rules 2016. Top breverage-makers like Coca-Cola, Pepsi and Bisleri have been printing buyback value on PET bottles sold in Maharashtra. A consumer must return collected bottles and pouches to claim deposit, instead of littering them on roads or in nature, which is a punishable offence. The rates of deposits suggested are : Rs. One per bottle of a litre or more, Rs. Two per bottle from 200 ml up to a liter and 50 paise per milk pouch. The recycled plastic will be used in the production of building blocks and road building etc. To encourage recycling France makes virgin plastic bottles worth 25 Rs. from cheaper ones, produced with recycled plastics. It also plans increased taxes on landfill; reduced value - added tax on recycling activities. The UK recycling system worth upto 10 percent on product price.

Enzyme - bio and medical wastes: The Central govt. has amended the existing rules for better management of the e-waste and bio medical waste and revised target for monitoring under the Central Pollution Control Board (CPCB). It is now mandatory for the Producer Responsibility Organization (PROD) to register themselves with the CPCB for better control on them. The electronic goods manufacturers, especially will now be responsible to collect and channel e-waste from the consumers to the authorized dismantlers and recyclers. The e-waste management rules have been amended by environment ministry to suit the environment. For biomedical waste, hospitals and allied clinics have not been using chlorinated plastic bags and gloves. Railway has installed machines at the stations to crush the plastic bottles.

Plastic, Eating Bacteria and Enzyme: According to a report, one student Morgan Vague (Reed College, Oregon) has found a bacteria that is capable of “eating” plastic and potentially breaking it down into harmless by-products.

A few years back, Japanese researchers had discovered a naturally occurring bacterium known as Ideonella sakaiensis, appearing to feed exclusively on a type of plastic, known as polyethylene terephthalate (PET), used in plastic bottles. While aiming to understand how one of its enzymes - called PETase worked, the scientists subsequently found another enzyme cutinase in fungus and bacteria. And when they mutated the PETase to make it more like the cutinase, they found the mutant enzyme was even better that could degrade full length of plastic. Now researchers are working on further improvement of the enzyme for the industrial use.

War Against Plastic: ‘Beat Plastic Pollution’ has been the theme of this year’s World Environment Day (June 5, 2018), of which India was the host.

The Govt. of India has written to all states and Union territories to start a massive campaign against the use of single-use plastics and make the use of carry-bags of less than 50 microns in thickness, Illegal. Earlier even also in the year 2016, the use of polyethylene bags of the said thickness was banned. But most of the States could not enforce it, facing ventors and small businessmen opposition, especially at eating joints, showing lack of alternatives. This time, the Environment Ministry has sensitized the States to a great deal. Many States have made out their action plan, and some corporate houses have banned plastic used for making bags etc.

India strives assuming the role of global leader, for eliminating plastic pollution.

Creating Public Consciousness: Students are more alive to the prevailing plastic peril and have taken up the issue making the public aware of it, through posters, banners, slogans, songs and playing street - plays. For example, in La Martiniere Girls College, Lucknow (U.P) items like shopping bags, pouches, large carry-bags and cushion covers etc., made out of woven - out clothes and such waste materials, were exhibited, as replacement to plastic, for the knowledge of public. To eliminate plastic, complete sensitivity of people is needed.

studying History or follow a certain path. If you feel dissatisfied and prepare for the UPSC exam. do your B.Tech first and then exams so no doubt, you can become an IAS officer .

Should I do engineering first and then, study History or follow a certain path? If you feel dissatisfied and prepare for the UPSC exam. do your B.Tech first and then exams so no doubt, you can become an IAS officer .

In such a case, you should visit a career counsellor and take a detailed test for better guidance.

My parents want me to be an engineer and I want to become an IAS officer. Should I do engineering first and then, prepare for Civil Services?

Many engineers crack IAS exams so no doubt, you can do your B.Tech first and then prepare for the UPSC exam. There is no harm in Engineering if that's what you would love to do. However, if you do engineering merely because your parents want you to do it, you might not enjoy four years of learning. You feel dissatisfied and frustrated and not be able to learn as you should.

Do not feel pressed to follow a certain path. If you think you would be happier studying History or geography, then those are the subjects you should seek admission in.

Can I seek admission to Humanities courses in DU colleges if I am a PCM student?

You can do so but you have to sacrifice 2% marks when you change stream to join a Delhi University course. So, if you are a PCM student and scored 96% in Class 12 and then choose to apply for a B.A. in Geography in a DU college, your marks will be counted as 94% (because you changed your stream) in the cut-off list the college prepares for the course.

University subjects have different rules though. Some of the other universities may not cut down your marks for trying to hold your stream. If I opt for the coaching classes for Civil Services, you will have to take a detailed test for better guidance.

There are many self-assessment tools which can help me identify which careers I should choose?

This is like asking the magic trick from the magician. Yet, here are some of the free self-assessment tools you may use to understand yourself better:

Tools to Understand Yourself

• O’Net Interest Profiler is sponsored by the U.S. Department of Labor. It is a free tool to assess your vocational interests on the RIASEC scale (which categorise the interests in six categories: Realistic, Investigative, Artistic, Social, Enterprising, and Conventional. It also offers you a list of jobs that match your interests that require no preparation all the way to those that might require extensive preparation.
• Kiersey Temperament Sorter is another tool to judge your personality type. This self-assessment questionnaire puts you under four major temperaments: Artisans, Guardians, Idealists and Rationalists. Each of these temperaments are further divided into two categories - each of which aims at a specific job role. Each job role is further classified in two types which define two variants of the role. You can take the test and then, study more about your personality type on the official Kiersey website.

Skills-based Self Assessment Tools

• O*Net Online is a good place to surf through. This tool also allows you to surf jobs by your interests, work activities, work styles, work values, work contexts, and physical work conditions. You can also search potential careers you may opt for through the skills you have.

• Government of Canada has developed a similar site where you can explore careers by essential skills you must have.

• Pradhan Mantri Kaushal Vikas Yojana (PMKVY) is offering skill-based training programs in over 30 sectors right now. You can check the different sector-specific skill councils to see the training programs being offered for different job roles in these sectors.

Values Assessment Test

• MyPlan Career Values Assessment Test is available for free. This test helps you to assess what kind of work motivates you and what kind of work environment or characteristics you need to achieve job satisfaction. This test also suggests careers that match your values.

• Career Perfect's Insight For Your Career offers value assessment test so you offer not offer career choices but it offers you a more detailed analysis of your work values. This tool is also available for free.

• There are many self-assessment tools which can help me identify which careers I should choose?

Which careers are open for me based on the stream I opt for?

There is no dearth of opportunities for the graduates of all the three major streams - Science, Commerce or Humanities. Most career counselors have extensive list of different careers one can opt for based on the stream of study (which stream one has chosen) you can visit them for more guidance.

If you cannot afford to go to a good career counselor, you might consider exploring the options you have on your own. Just google all the courses after Class 10/ Class 12/ graduation/post graduation for <subject> stream student” and you should find a lot of options easily.

Suppose you cleared your Class 12 with PCM and are looking for career options for you, you can type:

Career after Class 12 for PCM student

You will surely find thousands and millions of links with different options you can look at.

Can I earn my living as a painter?

One of the most difficult areas of providing career advice is for those who want to make a living as a creative artist. According to PayScale India, how much you can make anywhere between Rs 72,000 to Rs 10,00,000 per year. Assuming you are talking about being a fine artist, you can make anywhere between Rs 1,00,000 to Rs 20,00,000 per year as a painter or an illustrator.

In the end, it all ends up with how talented you are, how good you are at coming up with a unique and imaginative work and how you sell it.

Fortunately, there are literary agents to help you sell your books, artist agents who promote your art work, and several other agents to help actors, dancers, and other types of artists to create a niche in the market. When you are good at what you do, you can always tap into right opportunities with the help of these people.

My advice to all the students or professionals who come to me is - Do not be afraid to do what you love. Once you start working on what you are passionate about, you’ll surely reach your full potential.

It’s never too late to start working on your dream. It doesn’t matter if you are 14 or 40. As long as you are clear about your goals and ready to do anything to achieve them,

Women get a special focus under Skill India Mission

Ministry of Skill Development and Entrepreneurship has undertaken several initiatives to achieve women empowerment through skill development. Increase of women participation in workforce can give further boost to our economy and Skill India mission is committed to facilitate this through equipping women with market relevant skills and move them to a path of self-sufficiency through entrepreneurship.

Following initiatives have been undertaken to facilitate skill development among women and spur entrepreneurship.

1. Long Term Skill Development Training via Industrial Training Institutions (ITIs)
   Through a wide network of 15,042 ITIs, spanning the country, around 82 lakh candidates have been enrolled (in the trades of one year and two-year duration) and special focus is laid on enrolment of women. There is nearly 97% increase in admissions in 2018 as compared to 2014 to reach 73,105 women trainees from 87,799.

2. Short-Term Skill Development Training
   The flagship program of the Ministry, Pradhan Mantri Kaushal Vikas Yojana strives to promote increased participation of women in the workforce through appropriate skill training and gender mainstreaming of skills. Close to 50% of the candidates enrolled and trained under PMKVY are women; out of the total 50 lakh candidates who have benefited from the scheme. The efforts are made to conduct short-term skill training with women training under different ITIs.

3. Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL)
   The comprehensive reforms under Skill India Quest which mandates implementation of Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL) as per the requirements of Apprenticeship Act 1961 has been carried out.

4. Apprenticeship Training
   The programme is aimed at providing opportunity to the candidates who have been awarded with the Certificate of Competency in the field of skills.

5. Policy Interventions
   Ministry of Skill Development and Entrepreneurship is committed to facilitate this through equipping women with market relevant skills and move them to a path of self-sufficiency through entrepreneurship.

6. Special Women-Centric Projects
   NSDC, through its training partners such as Mann Deshi Foundation, Shri Mahila Sewa Sahkari Bank Limited and Sri Sarada Math Rasik Bhata are working exclusively on skill development of women, especially in rural areas. The training constitutes imparting digital accounting and entrepreneurial skills so as to facilitate the possibility of setting up their own business. NSDC in collaboration with the Ministry of Drinking Water and Sanitation is also working with local workers for Swachh Bharat Mission.

7. Partnerships with Private & Non-Government Organizations to boost skill development
   Some of the collaborative efforts with private players include organizations such as Airbnd to support homestay day services by providing training in hospitality and tourism sectors. Under a PMKVY project, Amrita Vishwa Vidyaapeetham is targeting remote villages to foster women entrepreneurship through skill development and creation of occupational opportunities. The project is focused towards vulnerable and marginalized groups and tribal population.

8. Project in Pradhan Mantri Mahila Kaushal Kendra (PMMKK)
   The project is focused on the formal sector education of women.

9. Future jobs and industry-oriented courses
   The National Skill Development Policy focuses on inclusive skill development, with the objective of increased workforce participation and economic productivity. To achieve this, Skill India Housing has been laid on creating additional infrastructure both for training and accommodation for women; women have flexible training delivery training mechanisms such as mobile training units, flexible afternoon batches along with on local need-based training to accommodate women; and ensuring safe and gender sensitive training environment, employment of women trainers, equity in remuneration, and complaint redressal mechanism.

Besides these, the Common Norms approved by Ministry for various skill development programs provide special support for women candidates such as provision of boarding and lodging facilities.

ENTREPRENEURSHIP DEVELOPMENT PROGRAMS FOR RURAL WOMEN

Entrepreneurship Development Programs for the rural women, with the objective to inculcate entrepreneurial values, attitude and motivation among the Rural women to take up challenges to set up an enterprise/GROUP Enterprises. The Livelihood Business Incubation (LB I) approach is also used to promote women entrepreneurs by the Institute. National Entrepreneurship Awards recognized entrepreneurial journeys of women at them. Out of 30 companies which received awards, 12 were solely owned by women and in another two, a man and a woman was a co-founder. Linkage of Skill India and Mudra Yojana has been achieved. Since, women comprise about 78% of the beneficiaries of Mudra Yojana, this linkage will further give boost to aspiring women entrepreneurs.
