Dr. Gautam Choubey

In January 1910, Paris experienced a calamity so grave that it jostled the metropolis out of its self-content stupor and triggered debates on civilizational ideals, urban planning, modern world’s obsession with material comforts and the environmental cost of progress. More than the scale of destruction, it was the manner of its unfolding which had stunned the world. The water level in Siene river rose dramatically and the Parisians were caught unawares as they woke up to what is often described as ‘the flood of the century.’ For a city which had distinguished itself as an emblem of ‘progress’ in most senses of the word, this was a wake up call which changed the way people thought about development and urbanisation. Reacting to the events Gandhi observed:

Nature works unceasingly according to her own laws, but man violates them constantly. In different ways and at different times, Nature tells man that there is nothing in the world which is not subject to change. This river in Paris rose in such a heavy flood that huge buildings were washed off...The people of Paris had built the city to last for ever. Nature has given a warning that even whole of Paris may be destroyed.

Since Paris 1910, both episodes of environmental/ industrial calamities as well as ecological degradation has continued unabated. Moreover, each time we are struck with a disaster, assessment reports are replete with statistical data on human and commercial cost of calamity, which in turn are quantified as monitory compensations and state interventions aimed at infrastructure reconstruction. Almost each time, we fail to assess, or even factor in environmental cost of such calamities. In modern world’s cantankerous swoop towards progress, Gandhi detected a self-destructive impulse. For him, this insatiable pursuit of material prosperity was the bane of modern civilization. As someone who remained a lifelong votary of rural cottage industry and decentralised administration, Gandhi saw the twin drives towards urbanisation and industrialisation as a worrying civilisational tendency. In his groundbreaking bestseller Small is Beautiful: A study of economics as if people mattered (1973), German born British economist E.F Schumacher argues that modern economies and developmental paradigms have committed the grave error of treating nature as an expendable income, and not

GETTING READY FOR UPCOMING CAREER OPPORTUNITIES IN BANKS

Arti S

There are few prestigious careers in the country which are possible with a qualification as simple as graduation. One is Civil Services for which the process is conducted by Union Public Service Commission (UPSC) every year. The other is a career in government owned banks which may be possible by qualifying in the examination conducted by the Institute of Banking Personnel Selection (IBPS). This article is about the latter. Banks in India, particularly the government owned (Public Sector) banks provide an excellent career option to young people, so there is no surprise that more and more young people are drawn towards them for a meaningful and long lasting career. When a small survey was conducted amongst jobseekers to understand why they are keen to join a government bank, the following points were made most commonly:

- The eligibility norms are simple
- The selection process is completely transparent, democratic and fair
- The selection process is completed in a time bound manner
- The service conditions are well defined with pay, allowances and other benefits to the employees
- There are good opportunities for promotion
- In our social structure working in a bank is considered much prestigious
- Opportunities are available across the country

Few other positive observations were also made. But whatever has been said above should be enough to consider banking as a career for those who possess the required aptitude.

The way banks have expanded their network in the country has few parallels in the world. In July 1969, 14 major banks of the country were nationalised. The next phase of nationalization happened in 1980 when 6 more banks were nationalised. Banks were asked to play a major role in socio-economic development of our nation. Large number of bank branches were opened in villages and in other far-off areas which have been hitherto unrepresented in banking facilities. After merger of Dena Bank and Vijaya Bank in Bank of Baroda, now there are 18 nationalised banks.

Regional Rural Banks came into existence through an ordinance issued in the year 1975. This ordinance was replaced by Regional Rural Banks Act in 1976. After reorganization now there are about 55 RRBS in the country. Since a large number of people work in these (public sector/regional rural) banks, there is regular turnover of employees. A number of employees superannuate, many get promoted to higher positions and few move to other organizations. To fill the gap so caused, these banks have to recruit fresh people periodically and therein lies the opportunity for our young friends who want to have a career in banking.

Basically banks have three levels of employment for freshers-subordinate staff, clerks and officers. There are very limited vacancies for subordinates’ positions and selection doesn’t take place on all India basis. So, in this article we’re going to cover the selection process for general banking officers and clerks only. A major segment of these employees in banks, directly attend to customer requirements. A smaller

BIMSTEC and its Importance

BIMSTEC, a grouping of seven countries led by India, is seen as an emerging as an alternative regional engagement platform.

The Bay of Bengal Initiative for Multi-Sectoral Technical and Economic Cooperation or the BIMSTEC was formed in 1997. It consists of Bangladesh, India, Myanmar, Sri Lanka, Thailand, Nepal and Bhutan as its member states. Founded in 1997, BIMSTEC acts as a bridge between South Asia and South East Asia, which are home to 1.5 billion people - nearly 21 per cent of the world population - and has a combined gross domestic product (GDP) of USD 3.5 trillion (approx Rs 240 lakh crores).

India is keen to enhance regional cooperation under BIMSTEC as SAARC has not been able to achieve its goals completely. The decision to invite BIMSTEC leaders for Prime Minister Narendra Modi's swearing-in ceremony on May 30, 2019 is an indication.

Bangladesh President Abdul Hamid, Sri Lankan President Maithripala Sirisena, Myanmar President U Win Myint, Bhutanese Prime Minister Lotay Tshering, Nepal's Prime Minister K P Sharma Oli and special envoy of Thailand, Minister Grisada Boonrach, were present when Narendra Modi took oath for the second consecutive term as Prime Minister.

Interestingly, in 2014, Prime Minister Narendra Modi, in a major initiative to reach out to the neighbourhood, had invited all SAARC leaders, including the then Pakistan Prime Minister Nawaz Sharif for his swearing-in ceremony.

Nawaz Sharif's attendance had filled India's hopes of better Indo-Pak ties. The two leaders also had raised hopes of better Indo-Pak economic relations.

The BIMSTEC Summit is now seen as an important overlay to the neighbourhood policy.

A few days after taking charge, External Affairs Minister S Jaishankar while speaking at a seminar in New Delhi said that the implementation of developmental projects in neighbouring countries and elsewhere will be one of his key focus areas.

He also said regional connectivity is going to be a key priority for India and BIMSTEC could be a key vehicle for economic prosperity and regional integration.

BIMSTEC, according to him, was witnessing a great deal of positive energy and so it was decided to leverage that and invite the leaders of the nations of this grouping to the swearing-in ceremony of the new government.

Jaishankar said there was enormous scope for improving India's record in implementation of projects and that he is making personally moral status of various key projects to ensure their speedy implementation.

Noting that South Asia was among the least interconnected regions in the world, he said India will look towards BIMSTEC to spur growth in the region.

The importance India attaches to BIMSTEC can also be gauged by the first official trips undertaken by Prime Ministers Narendra Modi and External Affairs Minister Jaishankar after assuming office. While Modi visited the Maldives and Sri Lanka, Jaishankar went to Bangladesh.

BIMSTEC has identified 14 priority areas where a member country takes lead. India is lead country for Transport & Communication, Tourism, Environment & Disaster Management and Counter Terrorism & Transnational Crime.

The South Asian Association of Regional Cooperation (SAARC) was created in 1965 and has an expression of the region's collective decision to evolve a regional cooperative framework. The eight member countries in SAARC are Afghanistan, Bangladesh, Bhutan, India, Nepal, Maldives, Pakistan and Sri Lanka. It also has nine observers - China, EU, Iran, Republic of Korea, Australia, Japan, Mauritius, Myanmar and the USA.

In January 2018, the government had informed the Lok Sabha that SAARC has been unable to achieve its potential as key initiatives, including in the important area of connectivity, had been held back due to lack of response or obstructionist approach of Pakistan.

Though India did not participate in the BIMSTEC Summit, it has been taking various initiatives including asymmetrical responsibilities for enhancing regional cooperation under SAARC.

India launched the South Asia Satellite, a first of its kind initiative, in May 2017. The project has wide ranging applications in health, education, disaster response, weather forecasting and communications.

About BIMSTEC

BIMSTEC is a regional organisation comprising seven member states lying in the littoral area of the Bay of Bengal constituting a contiguous regional unity.

This sub-regional organisation came into being on June 6, 1997 through the Bangkok Declaration. Initially, the economic bloc was formed with four member states - BIST-EC (Bangladesh, India, Sri Lanka and Thailand Economic Cooperation).

After the inclusion of Myanmar on December 22, 1997 at a special ministerial meeting in Bangkok, the group was renamed ‘BIMST-EC’ (Bangladesh, India, Myanmar, Sri Lanka and Thailand Economic Cooperation).

With the admission of Nepal and Bhutan at the 6th ministerial meeting (February 2004, Thailand), the name of the grouping was changed to BIMSTEC.

BIMSTEC has established a platform for intra-regional cooperation between SAARC on one hand and ASEAN and ADB on the other.

The objective of such an alliance was to harness shared and accelerated growth through mutual cooperation in different areas of common interests by mitigating the onslaught of globalisation and by utilising regional resources and geographical advantages.

BIMSTEC is a sector-driven cooperative organisation, unlike many other regional groupings. Starting with six sectors-trade, technology, energy, transport, tourism and fisheries - for sectoral cooperation, it expanded to embrace nine more sectors - culture, public health, poverty alleviation, counter-terrorism, environment, culture, people to people contact and climate change - in 2008.

The grouping functions according to the founding principles of BIMSTEC as laid down in the Bangkok Declaration and directions given by the leaders of the member states.

The founding principles of BIMSTEC are:

* Cooperation within BIMSTEC will be based on respect for the principle of sovereignty equality, territorial integrity, political independence, non-interference in internal affairs, peaceful co-existence and mutual benefit.
* Cooperation within BIMSTEC will constitute an addition to and not be a substitute for bilateral, regional or multilateral cooperative involving the member states.

The chairmanship of BIMSTEC rotates among the member states. Currently, Sri Lanka is the chair of BIMSTEC. The first chair was Bangladesh while India has headed it twice (2000, 2006-2008).

BIMSTEC meets regularly at different levels. Each type of meeting is based on the cooperative responsibilities, but is closely interrelated to one another. The country holding the chairmanship of BIMSTEC is responsible for the conduct of cooperation meetings, including the BIMSTEC Summit, ministerial meeting, senior officials' meeting and BIMSTEC working group meeting.

The BIMSTEC Summit is regarded as the highest policy making decisions in the BIMSTEC process. According to norms, the summit should be held every two years, as possible. The first summit was held in Kathmandu in 2003 while the last summit - the fourth in order - was held in Kathmandu in 2018.

Ministerial meetings cover the area of foreign affairs and the trade and economic ministerial meetings monitors the progress in the trade and investment sector as well as FTA policy.

At the fourth BIMSTEC Summit in Kathmandu in 2018, the member countries among other decision affirmed their solemn commitment to making the Bay of Bengal Regional Peaceful, prosperous and sustainable by building on cooperation strengths through collective efforts.

They recognised that eradication of poverty is the greatest regional challenge in realisation of development objectives and committed to work together for the implementation of the Agenda.

Main threats | Some underlying causes
Threats in terrestrial areas

Degradation, destruction and fragmentation of natural habitats | Spread of the urbanised areas, road network and industrial areas and associated problems (noise, pollution);

|  | Abandonment of former agricultural practices that were favourable to biodiversity |

Decrease in the capacity of the agricultural areas to host wildlife | Intensification of agricultural practices (yielding pollution and disturbance) and disappearance of landscape elements that provide food and shelter that are exploitable by wildlife (such as hedges, trees, ponds, etc.)

Pollution of soils, air and water | Excess of heavy metals (industry, roads), pollutants, unnatural pesticides (agriculture) and other pollutants

Invasions by alien species | International trade and transport (roads, railways, rivers), gardening practices, exotic trees in forestry, exotic pets released in the wild, climate change, etc.

Epidemics affecting wildlife | Arrivals of pathogens that are favoured by the introduction of exotic species, pollution and the destruction of habitats

Climate change | Carbon emissions, deforestation and other land use changes due to human activities

Dissociation of soils and wetlands | Excess pumping of underground water tables

Recreation and leisure | Overuse of green open spaces and wild areas, loss of respect for nature, mountain biking and motor sports in fragile areas, dogs not on lease

Threats in marine areas

Overfishing and decline of species | Industrial fishing, overexploitation of target species, by-catch species

|  | Pollution and eutrophication |

Degradation and destruction of the sea floor | Beams trawling, dredging, sand and gravel extraction

Alien species introductions | Maritime trade (ballast waters, fouling), leisure navigation, mariculture, climate change

Leisure and tourism | Coastal development, water quality in summer (high population), mechanical beach cleaning, noise and other perturbations due to the high population

Convention on Biological Diversity

A major step forward in the conservation of biodiversity, the sustainable use of its components, and the fair and equitable sharing of benefits arising from the use of genetic resources, is the Convention on Biological Diversity, or CBD. It is an international agreement adopted at the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development, or the Earth Summit, in Rio de Janeiro, in 1992. The Convention entered into force on 29 December 1993. It showed the world community’s growing commitment to sustainable development. It has three main objectives: a) to conserve biological diversity

|  | b) to use its components in a sustainable way and

|  | c) to share fairly and equitably the benefits arising from the use of genetic resources.

Cartagena Protocol

The Cartagena Protocol on Biosafety to the Convention on Biological Diversity is an international treaty governing the movements of living modified organisms (LMOs) resulting from modern biotechnology from one country to another. It was adopted on 29 January 2000 as a supplementary agreement to the Convention on Biological Diversity and entered into force on 11 September 2003. The objective of this Protocol is to contribute to ensuring an adequate level of protection in the field of the safe transfer, handling and use of living modified organisms resulting from modern biotechnology that may have adverse effects on the conservation and sustainable use of biological diversity, taking also into account risks to human health, and specifically focusing on transboundary movements.

Nagoya Protocol on Access and Benefit-sharing

The Nagoya Protocol on Access to Genetic Resources and the Fair and Equitable Sharing of Benefits Arising from their Utilization to the Convention on Biological Diversity is an international agreement which focuses on the sharing of the benefits arising from the utilization of genetic resources in a fair and equitable way. It was adopted on 29 October 2010 in Nagoya, Japan, and entered into force on 12 October 2014. It provides a transparent legal framework for the effective implementation of one of the three objectives of the CBD: the fair and equitable sharing of benefits arising out of the utilisation of genetic resources. The Nagoya Protocol applies to genetic resources that are covered by the CBD, and to the benefits arising from their utilisation. The Nagoya Protocol also covers traditional knowledge associated with genetic resources that are covered by the CBD and the benefits arising from its utilisation.

section is involved in backoffice activities, general or remote administration etc.

There are separate examinations for RRBs and PSBs under the aegis of IBPS. Again the selection process for both clerks and officers is segregated for both set of the above banks. Please note that selection test for State Bank of India is conducted separately.

In RRBs clerical positions candidates are grouped into five categories with nomenclature of ‘office assistant- multi-purpose’. The eligibility criteria for both clerks and officers is bachelor’s degree in any discipline and proficiency in local language as prescribed by the participating RRBs. Working knowledge of computer is desirable. In case of officers position in RRBs, those having a degree in Agriculture/ Pisciculture/ Agricultural marketing and management/ Forestry/ Veterinary science/ Horticulture/Agricultural marketing/ Agricultural engineering/ Accountancy/ Law/Management or information technology.

The preparation for preliminary examination is divided into prelim preparation and main examination both for clerks and officers. Preliminary examination for clerks have questions from reasoning and numerical ability. For officers it is reasoning and numerical reasoning aptitude. In all 80 questions are to be attempted in composite time of 45 minutes.

The main examination for clerks contain questions relating to general awareness, English and Hindi language and computer knowledge. For officers the section of numerical ability is replaced by quantitative aptitude.

For public sector banks the preliminary examination for clerical positions is conducted with questions in English language, numerical ability and reasoning ability and the main examination consists of general/ financial awareness, general English, reasoning ability and computer aptitude. Number of questions in preliminary examination is no more than 25 in all the sections and time allotted is 1 hour. In main examination 190 questions are to be answered about two years ago.

Test details and strategy for preparation

Reasoning: Reasoning questions are mainly about common sense and logical thinking. The idea is to test your visual-spatial reasoning and logical reasoning skills. You will be asked to interpret statements, data and information to arrive at conclusions. Here your conceptual and theoretical knowledge have no role to play. The thinking has to concentrate on the question only. You should make sure that your biases or personal beliefs don’t come in between and are kept aside.

Questions relating to reasoning in each section such as arrangements, critical reasoning, visual understanding, data sufficiency/in sufficiency, syllogism, odd man out, completing the series, sequential output tracking, etc. may appear. How to make sense of numbers is the key theme in the questions pertaining to numerical ability.

You may expect simple arithmetical problems and complicated calculations under this section. Areas of expected questions are simplification; average; percentage, time, speed and distance, number series; profit and loss, simple and compound interest; ratio and proportion, time and work etc.

To prepare for this section you have to revisit your maths syllabus of matric i.e. 10th standard. Recall the formulae and clarify your concepts of BODMAS etc. Strong foundation in basics will be of immense help here. With some efforts you can score very well in this section, increasing your overall score which is crucial to put you in merit list.

Quantitative aptitude: Quantitative aptitude is numerical ability and focuses upon solving quantitative problems. Based on the given data/inputs you’ll be required to find the correct answer. There may be a few questions for which sufficient data wouldn’t be there to answer. Once you’re sure about this, you should mark your option conveying this. The syllabus includes the topics narrated under numerical ability above. Add to this questions on topics like partnerships, boats and streams, volume and surface area, equations, number system, basic mixture and ingredient concept, mixture, train etc. Expect more of descriptive problems here.

Try to familiarize yourself with all sorts of questions expected in this section and learn to solve these methodically. You may have good understanding of theories behind the questions but more important is to apply those theories in solving lot of questions so that you get a knack of these.

General awareness: This section intends to test your knowledge about important facts and milestones about India and the world. Questions may relate to History (important dates and personalities), Geography (countries, capitals, cities, mountains, rivers etc.), Science (inventions, inventors, definitions etc.), Literature (books/authors), Art, Entertainment (film/theatre etc.), Sports (tournaments, famous coaches, players, winners, venues etc.), important personalities, important events, international bodies, acronyms and other topics.

Like it is always said general awareness is the matter of day by day and thus it appears to be difficult to be fully prepared for this. Still it is advisable to make your preparation as extensive as possible. To do well in this section you may build your own reference source in form of a diary.

Financial awareness: Banking and finance are closely related. This section will have questions related to national and global economy, financial institutions, corporate world, stock market etc. To prepare for this section you have to focus on concepts as well as financial data. For example you need to know what has been the inflation rate recently. You may refer to one or more financial newspapers to prepare well.

Banking awareness: This question type will draw questions from banking world relating to different types of banks (public, private, cooperative, payment, development, small), banking regulator, basic/ generic banking products and services, history, purpose of nationalization, bank mergers, issues and challenges before banks, government schemes implemented through banks, Micro, Small and Medium enterprises, bancassurance, monetary policy etc. Government policy announcements, financial inclusion, financial literacy, role of NABARD/SIDBI etc. Visit Reserve Bank of India website to obtain valuable input about most of the above.

English / Hindi language: There are many similarities in the pattern of questions in language papers. One set of questions is based on comprehension passage. You have to read the passage carefully and then answer the questions according to what is stated in the passage which may be different from general opinion and observations. Some of the questions may be in negative form. (e.g. according to the passage which is not the right solution for). In sentence based questions a sentence will be divided in four parts and you’ll be required to choose the correct part of the particular part. If there are no mistakes, you’ve to mark your answer accordingly. Where jumbled sentences of a paragraph are given the candidate has to find the correct order and a question related to a statement will be made and you have to choose from options the statement which matches with the idea. Questions where you’ve to provide correct antonym/ synonym, may also be there along with questions relating to idioms and phrases. Fill in the blanks from given options may also need to be attempted.

For officers, in the main examination there is a section of 25 questions in which there would be two questions - one of essay writing and other of letter writing. It would be better if you choose few themes to practice for this section. Review the letter and essay written by you to see where improvements are needed. Also show these a couple of other people who can give you constructive feedback. Go through sample essays and letters in a good book in General English.

To prepare for this section you should read some national newspapers, magazines, if you’re not already in habit of this.

There will be some new words. Find out their meaning and see how these words have been used. You may also explore synonyms and antonyms of these words. Your mind should also be on sentence formation and on sequencing of the statements in case of long answer questions. Increasing your knowledge of English by learning new words will help you. Every day choose 5-10 unfamiliar words from dictionary or other sources, write their meanings and refer to these whenever you get time. In this way, you may learn many new words.

For RRBs, candidates have to choose either Hindi or English in the main examination.

Computer knowledge : This test has been added a few years ago. Today’s banking widely uses computer applications and programmes. As such candidates joining banks are expected to have at least some affinity with computers. Questions under this section is based on computer applications (input, output, storage devices.), Windows programme (MS Office etc.) features, software and desktop applications, keyboard shortcuts, internet, intranet, networking, database, cyber security etc.

You may have practical knowledge of computers and internet which of course would help. However you need to make additional preparation for which you may explore websites of banks, Banks’FB pages, Windows, internet and computer applications etc. Learn about shortcut keys. Also it’s advisable to go through Help/Support page of Windows.

This computer test is not to check your technical expertise, rather your awareness about basic computer usage is judged.

Data Interpretation: In this section usually a situation full of data is given. The candidate is required to read the situation closely and then answer all the questions related to it. For one situation there may be 2 to 10 questions. Here the biggest challenge is to read and understand the situation right. Then the possibility of giving correct answer increases. The situation may be in form of text, tables, pie charts, bar graphs, line graphs etc. So you should be ready to see questions from multiple forms of situations.

As a fixed capital. For Schumacher, this apathy towards nature and exclusion of environmental cost from development activities have led to an unsustainable economic order. Schumacher writes: “The arising of this error, so egregious and so firmly rooted is closely connected with the philosophical, not to say religious, changes during the last three or four centuries in man’s attitude to nature. Modern man does not think of himself as a part of nature but as an outside force destined to dominate and conquer it. He even talks of a battle with nature...”

In the light of Paris 1910, Gandhi and Schumacher, one feels impelled to ask the following question: how many calamities would it take for us to rethink our way, time and again? What are those heed those warnings which nature sends...? What are those warnings which nature sends...? What are those warnings which nature sends...? What are those warnings which nature sends...?

Nature was more than a passive resource, our way, time and again? What are those warnings which nature sends...? What are those warnings which nature sends...? What are those warnings which nature sends...? What are those warnings which nature sends...?

Schumacher's book. In his life and in his writings, one witness a residual religious framework, which not only invokes a moral response towards God, but also a God for development. But this is much more than that. It is a problem of discourse, narrative and perception too. The present environmental crisis is linked to the way people feel, read, hear and talk about nature. How best to talk, describe or debate environment? Do we have a template which might harmonise discursive imperatives of environmental preservation with sustainable development or ecological and economy sustainability. Efforts to reactivate man’s scared engagement with nature by promoting local riverine festival has yielded results. The example of Ahirouli, a densely populated village situated on the bank of Ganges in Buxar district of Bihar, may be a case in point. In the village, the whole gamut of commercial activities, from fishing to farming, are centred on the river. Yet, for years, pollution and garbage piles on the riverbank had been on the rise. However, every year since 1999, the villagers decided to celebrate Ganga Dussehra, cleanliness along the bank has improved remarkably. The ministry of External Affairs hosted fifth sub-group on Legal & Enforcement issues in January 2013 in New Delhi, where draft Convention on Mutual Legal Assistance in Criminal Matters was finalised. The members signed ‘BIMSTEC Convention on Mutual Legal Assistance in Criminal Matters’ and called upon its early ratification. They expressed satisfaction that many member states have ratified the BIMSTEC Convention on Cooperation in Combating International Terrorism, Transnational Organised Crime and Illicit Drug Trafficking. The BIMSTEC cooperation under Counter-Terrorism and Transnational Crime has been divided into four sub-groups with lead countries - Intelligence Sharing (Sri Lanka); Combating Financing of Terrorism (Thailand), Legal and Law Enforcement Issues (India) and Prevention of Illicit Trafficking in Narcotics Drugs, Psychotropic Substances and Precursors (Myanmar).

The Ministry of External Affairs hosted fifth sub-group on Legal & Enforcement issues in January 2013 in New Delhi, where draft Convention on Mutual Legal Assistance in Criminal Matters was finalised. The members signed ‘BIMSTEC Convention on Cooperation in Combating International Terrorism, Transnational Organised Crime and Illicit Drug Trafficking’ in December 2009. India has ratified it.

BIMSTEC aims to be a dynamic, effective and result-oriented regional organisation for promoting a peaceful, prosperous and sustainable Bay of Bengal Region through meaningful cooperation and deeper integration. For this, a fair, just, rule-based, equitable and transparent international order and reaffirming faith in the multilateralism with the United Nations at the centre and the rules-based international trading system is the key.

CLEAR GOALS AND DETERMINATION ARE KEY TO SUCCESS: CHHAVI BANSAL

Chhavi Bansal - who has secured Rank 2 in Delhi Judicial Service Exam 2018 - shared her strategy with readers of Employment News. Delhi Judicial Service Exam is conducted by Delhi High Court. Chhavi has achieved this feat in her first attempt. In this interview we have tried to cover her strategy, exam pattern and other topics that could be very useful to the aspirants preparing for Judicial Services Exam in general and Delhi Judicial Service Exam in particular.

Welcome Chhavi! First of all, many congratulations to you for your success. Please tell us something about yourself.

1. Were you confident of your success with top rank and how did you react to this news?

Chhavi: Due to the very nature of competitive exams, the result was a little unexpected, but it was a very pleasant surprise. It was more so in my case because it was my first attempt, and I felt that I did not get a lot of time to prepare for the exam.

2. How did you enter the world of law, who inspired you to go for judicial services?

Chhavi: I got admission in law right after my school (5 year course from IP University, Delhi). During the tenure, I had the opportunity to visit courts many times, and to interact with judicial officers. Meeting them motivated me to be a part of this esteemed service.

3. When did you start your preparations for judicial services and Delhi Judicial Service? What was your overall preparation strategy? Did you take any help from coaching?

Chhavi: I did not take any coaching. Since I had a family background in law, my parents were my guides. My preparation for DJS specifically began in May 2018. The overall strategy was to clear one obstacle at a time- prelims, then mains, then interview. For prelims, my focus was on attaining conceptual clarity of the law by studying the Bare Acts in detail. I studied and solved the past year papers and other MCQs for the preparation of the prelims. For the mains, I studied law topic-wise and subject-wise. Bare Acts, standard text books and my college notes was what I based most of my preparation on in respect of the mains. For some subjects, I took help of compilations available in the market. For the interview, I brushed up on the Bare Acts and kept myself aware of the legal developments around me.

4. Could you please elaborate more on subject-wise strategy like IPC, CrPC, CPC, Evidence Act? Please also tell us about the books that you referred to.

Chhavi: IPC in my opinion was a little easy to prepare, because the crux of it lies in knowing the ingredients of offences, supplemented by landmark case laws. I studied IPC from my notes based on Pillai and AK Jain. For CrPC, I referred to portions of Kelkar and AK Jain. For CPC, I read Takwani and AK Jain. For Evidence, I read Avtar Singh and AK Jain.

For the procedural laws, I was slightly selective with my topics as I did not have a lot of time between the prelims and mains. Thus, for mains, I skipped the topics which were directly based off the Bare Act (eg- procedure of trial in different courts).

5. Which subject is most difficult from your point of view as far as DJS exam is concerned and which are the important topics?

Chhavi: for me, Paper 3 of DJS Mains (Civil Law 1) was the most tedious because its syllabus consisted of 8 laws to be covered. This made the preparation for this paper very strenuous. I studied most of them from the bare acts, supplemented by AK Jain.

In order to gauge the importance of topics, a study of the past year papers can be done by the candidates. The exercise will show which topics are more important than the others.

6. Could you tell us about the magazines, newspaper or any other online resources that you referred to during the preparation?

Chhavi: for the GK portion of both Prelims and Mains, I referred to Pratyogita Darpan magazines. I also read Dristhi Current Affairs magazine for the Mains. In addition to it, I browsed through the daily current affairs at insightindia.com whenever I used to get time. Further, for the English paper, I googled topics on which potential essays could be written.

7. What was the strategy you adopted for Prelims and Mains?

Chhavi: (discussed above)

8. How did you prepare for the Interview? Did you also opt for Mock Interviews?

Chhavi: I kept myself updated on the current affairs by reading newspapers. In addition to them, I brushed up on my Bare Acts before the interview. I did not take any mock interviews.

9. Time Management is a key factor for any exam. What was your strategy for time management while you were preparing and during the exam?

Chhavi: I had a target of spending a maximum of such minutes on a question as the number of marks it was worth. For instance, I decided to not spend more than 5 minutes on a 5 marker. The law papers were for 200 marks each, meant to be attempted in 3 hours. This strategy gave me a rough idea about my speed throughout the paper.

10. Were you preparing for other career opportunities as well while preparing for your ultimate goal i.e., Career in Judiciary?

Chhavi: I was practising part time as an advocate.

11. What is the secret of your success as you cleared DJS in your 1st attempt?

Chhavi: in my opinion, I don’t think I did anything special. It is possible that the other candidates do not usually do. However, I can say that I did not compromise on the presentation of my answers in the mains. I preferred writing in points, and giving my answers in a very crisp introduction-body-conclusion format. I think this might have helped me in my answers.

12. Any suggestion/advice you would like to give to the future aspirants?

Chhavi: the best time to begin preparation for this examination is to start on the very day you decide to take such examination in future. Nothing is too early, nothing is too late. For students specially, utilise the time in college by preparing notes. My notes helped me extensively during my preparation.

Thank you very much and wishing you all the best for your future endeavors. For more information, you can contact our Under Director of knowledge start up 'Delhi Knowledge Track'. She can be reached at priyarjindal@gmail.com.
