PENSION SCHEMES TO WIDEN PENSION INFRASTRUCTURE

Shishir Sinha

India has improved its ranking in Melbourne Mercer Global Pension Index, a well-recognised benchmark for assessing country's performance in providing pension and retirement benefits to its citizens.

2019 Index places India at 32nd position out of 37 countries while in 2018 it was at 33rd position out of 34 countries. Its score improved to 45.8 in 2019 from 44.6 in 2018. Still, it is just a notch above the last grade and placed along with Argentina, China, Japan, Korea, Mexico, Philippines, Thailand and Turkey. How is the system in these countries? Answer to this question lies in the description related with the group which reads like this, "A system that has some desirable features, but also has major weaknesses and/or omission that need to be addressed. Without these improvements, its efficacy and sustainability are in doubt."

Denmark, Netherlands and Australia are top three countries in this ranking with index value of 75 to 80 and above.

Talking about India, the report says that the Indian index value increased due to small increase in each of the three sub-indices, which are adequacy, sustainability and integrity. The adequacy sub-index considers the benefits provided to the poor and a range of income earners as well as several design features and characteristics which enhance the efficacy of the overall retirement income system.

Here, India's sub-index value improved to 39.9 from 38.7.

The sustainability sub-index considers a number of indicators which influence the long-term sustainability of current retirement income systems. Here, India's score was 44.9 up from 43.8. Finally, the integrity sub-index considers three broad areas of the pension system, namely regulation and governance; protection and communication for members, and operating costs. In this category, India scored 56.3 from 55.2.

The report noted that here retirement income system comprises an earnings-related employee pension scheme, a defined contribution employee provident fund, and supplementary employer managed pension schemes that are largely defined contribution in nature. Government schemes have been launched as part of universal social security program aimed at benefitting the unorganised sector. The National Pension System is gradually gaining popularity. It said.

Let us discuss key pension schemes available in India:

National Pension System (NPS)

Introduced from January 1, 2004, it brought about a paradigm shift in the pension system especially for Government employees. With this pension became 'contributory' from 'defined'.

According to a Government gazette notification dated December 22, 2003, the

CAREERS IN CORPORATE LAW

Vijay Prakash Srivastava

Recently there were two important reports relevant to the theme of this article, in a leading financial daily of the country. The first report had the caption-‘Indian Companies are losing ground to their peers abroad’. The other report talked of legal and education sectors being the most dynamic in terms of hiring of professionals in the first half of 2018. This should cheer up those willing to enter the corporate world with a law degree.

Law means a system of rules, regulations and guidelines legally enforceable. Corporate law refers to rules, regulations and guidelines applicable to companies. Subject to conditions a company is also a legal entity and there are a number of laws specifically made for such entities.

As a discipline of study law has been in existence for decades. However the kind of career opportunities this field is offering were not seen 20-25 years before. It was hardly a preferred subject of study for most of the students. Studying law meant later becoming an advocate and practicing in a court of law, mostly in lower courts. Majority of law graduates could get to practice at district and taluka level courts, with very few of them being able to join the bar at high and supreme court even after putting in long number of years. Few legal luminaries enhanced the prestige of profession. Nevertheless the subject rarely could be put in the league of engineering, medical, management which were used to attract large number of students from the career's point of view.

Today the situation has completely changed. In fact law is at the top among list of subjects study of which has seen a complete paradigm shift. Today many bright students are keen to study law and build a corporate career in it. This paradigm shift has happened mainly because of following situations or reasons:

Professionalization of legal education: Earlier law courses used to be taught at universities and university affiliated colleges. There was dearth of institutes exclusively meant for legal education. Establishing bodies like National Law School University of India was on the patterns of IITs and IIMs and created a new identity for study of the subject.

Expansion of markets and consumerism: Indian markets and businesses are expanding in a big way and consumerism is gaining strength on a continuous basis. There is a growing demand for products and services including financial services. This also influences requirement of manpower. The increase in demand of professionals in various disciplines, law included, is a testimony to this.

My dear countrymen, Namaskar. On the pious festival of Deepawali, greetings to all of you. We are familiar with the lines of the Shlok -

Shubhakarol Kalyanam, Aarogyam Dhansampada,
Shatrubudththi Vinashaya, Deepayoji Namostute!

What a fine, purposeful message! The shlok says: It is light that ushers in joy, health and prosperity into our lives, dispelling negative thought, bringing in positivity. I salute the divine flame respectfully.

To make this Diwali memorable, what could be a better way than an attempt to let light spread its radiance, encouraging positivity, with a prayer, to quell the feeling of animosity? These days, Diwali is celebrated across many countries. And notably, it is not limited to Indian communities; even governments, citizens and social organisations wholeheartedly celebrate Diwali with gaiety and fervor. In a way, they nurture a microcosm of India at their respective places.

Friends, festival tourism has its own exciting attractions. Our India, the country of festivals, possesses limitless possibilities in the realm of festival tourism. It must be our endeavour to ensure that we should welcomingly include people of other states, other countries when we celebrate Holi, Diwali, Onam, Pangal or Bihu, spreading their true spirit. Here, every state, every region is replete with distinct festivals, generating a lot of interest in people from other countries.

Hence, the Prime Minister has a significant role to play in promoting festival tourism in India.

My dear countrymen, in the previous episode of Mann Ki Baat, we had decided to do something different this Diwali. I had urged all of you to celebrate India’s Nari-Shakti, the power and achievement of women, thereby elucidating their strength. And within no time, there followed a slew of innumerable inspirational stories on social media. Kodipaka Ramesh from Warangal has written on Namo App -

“My mother is my strength. In 1990, when my father expired, the responsibility to raise five sons fell on her shoulders. Today, all five brothers are doing well in their respective professions. My mother is God to me. She is the Lakshmi of India in every sense of the term.”

Ramesh ji, respectfully greetings to your mother. Geetika Swami, who is active on Twitter, says that for her, Major Khushbu Kamwar, daughter of a bus conductor, who has led an all women contingent of Assam Rifles, is the Lakshmi of India. For Kavita Tiwari, her daughter is the Lakshmi of India, her strength. She is proud of her daughter of a bus conductor, who has led an all women contingent of Assam Rifles, is the Lakshmi of India. For Kavita Tiwari, her daughter is the Lakshmi of India, her strength. She is proud of her daughter’s excellent painting ability. She has also secured a good rank in the CLAT exam. Whereas Megha Jain has mentioned that a 92 year old woman has been offering free drinking water to passengers at Gwalior Railway Station. Megha ji is truly inspired by the humility and compassion of this Lakshmi of India. Many such stories have been shared by people. Do read them, get inspired and share similar instances. I respectfully salute all the Lakshmis of India.

My dear countrymen, the well known 17th century poetess Sanchi Honnamma has penned a poem in Kannada that embodies the humility and compassion of this Lakshmi of India. And within no time, there followed a slew of innumerable inspirational stories on social media. Kodipaka Ramesh from Warangal has written on Namo App -

“Penninda broohu perchidanu
Penninda permegondanu himavantanu.
( Penninda broohu perchidanu

What means, Himwant, Lord mounted fane on account of daughter Parvati, Rishi Brighu on account of his daughter Lakshmi and King Janak because of daughter Sita. Our daughters are our pride...their prestigious virtually cradles our social fabric, ensuring its bright future.

My dear countrymen, the 12th of November, 2019 is the day when the 550th Prakashotsav of Guru Nanak Dev ji will be celebrated across the world. The luminiscence of Guru Nanak Dev ji’s influence can be felt not only in India but around the world. Many of our Sikh brothers and sisters settled in other countries committedly follow Guru Nanak Dev ji’s ideals. I can never forget my visits to Gurudwaras in Vancouver and Tehran. There is much about Guru Nanak Dev ji that I can share with you, but it will require many an episode of Mann ki Baat. He accorded the highest significance to the spirit of service. Guru Nanak Dev ji firmly believed that any service done selflessly was beyond evaluation. He stood firm against social ills such as untouchability. Sri Guru Nanak Dev ji radiated his message of brotherhood across the world. He was the widest travelled of those times. And wherever he went he won hearts through his straightforwardness, humility and simplicity. Guru Nanak Ji understood the spiritual journeys called ‘Udaasi’. Carrying the message of harmony and equality, he travelled north, south, east and west, meeting people, saints and sages. It is said that the revered Assamese saint Shankar Dev too was inspired by him. He also travelled to the holy land of Haridwar. There is a holy place in Kashi named ‘Gururagh Gurudwara’. It is believed that Guru Nanak Dev Ji had halted there. He also went to Buddhist holy sites such as Rajgir and Gaya. His journeys to the south took him to Sri Lanka, as well. During his Yatra to Bidar, Karnataka, he devised a solution for water woes the place was grappling with. Gurunanak Ji’s ideals. I respectfully salute all the Lakshmis of India.

To ensure that, what he did will surprise you.He contacted farmers and urged them to craft khadi bags. These were made and sold to the delegates. They carried the bags with their shoes inside, free from any tension of the footwear getting stolen. On the other hand, it led to a major rise in the sale of khadi. Our country will always be indebted to Sardar Patel for his steller role in the Constituent Assembly. He strove to ensure enshrinement of fundamental rights that obliterated any possibility of discrimination on the basis of caste and community.

Friends, all of us know that as India’s first home minister, Sardar Patel undertook the colossal, historic task of integrating Princely states. Scrutinizing the minutest of events closely was his rare quality. On the one hand, he concentrated on Hyderabad, Junagadh and other States; on the other, he was watching far flung Lakshadweep intently. Actually, when we refer to Sardar Patel’s endeavours, his role in the unification of just a few notable States is discussed. He played a far more significant role, when it came to a small region such as Lakshadweep too. Lakshadweep is one of the most beautiful landscapes in India. Soon after system became mandatory for all new recruits on or after January 1, 2004. (Except the armed forces in the first stage. Initially, every recruit was asked to contribute 10 per cent of the basic salary and DA (Dearness Allowance) and it was matched by the Government, which will provide monthly pension to the Government employees and thereafter his/her spouse, dependent parents.

Remaining 60 per cent would be paid lump sum to the employees. However, Tier-I account under the new pension system before the age of 60, he/she will get 20 per cent as lump-sums, while mandatory annuitisation would be 80 per cent of the pension wealth. Here, contribution, accumulation and withdrawal do not attract tax.

Tier-II account would be voluntary and withdrawable. This option has been given as General Provident Fund (GPF) is no longer available and in government services on or after January 1, 2004. However, Government does not contribute into this account, though it is managed like Tier-I. The employee is free to withdraw the amount at any time.

There is no special tax treatment for this account.

Meanwhile, the Centre, through a Cabinet decision on December 6, 2008, announced following for NPS for the Government employees:

- Enhancement of the mandatory contribution by the Central Government for its employees covered under NPS Tier-I from 10 per cent to 12 per-cent.
- Providing freedom of choice for selection of Pension Funds and pattern of investment to central government employees.
- Payment of contribution for non-deposit or delayed deposit of NPS contributions during 2004-2012.
- Tax exemption limit for lump sum withdrawal has been enhanced to 60 per cent. With this, the entire withdrawal has now been exempted from income tax.
- Contribution by the Government employees under Tier-II of NPS will now be covered under Section 80 C for deduction up to Rs. 1.50 lakh for the purpose of income tax at par with the other schemes such as General Provident Fund (GPF), Employee’s Provident Fund (EPF), Employees’ Provident Fund (EPFO), and Public Provident Fund provided that there is a lock-in period of 3 years. Changes will benefit to approximately 118 lakh central government employees covered under NPS. It is expected that State Governments will also extend the benefit to its employees enrolled under NPS.

After successful implementation for the Central Government employees, NPS was made available to all citizens of India from May 1, 2009, to incorporate in December 2011, to Non-Resident Indians in October 2012, and to Overseas Citizens of India in October 2019. A citizen of India, whether resident or non-resident, can subscribe NPS. He/she should be between 18 - 60 years of age as on the date of submission of his/her application and comply with the Know Your Customer (KYC) norms. Here too, the subscribers will have option for both Tier-I and Tier-II accounts. Terms and conditions of Tier-I and Tier-II accounts are same like for the Government employees, however, the Government will not make matching contribution in Tier-I.

Employees’ Pension Scheme, 1995 (EPS) is eligible for this pension scheme and he/she automatically gets enrolled after becoming part of EPF. Only difference here is that not employee but employer and the Central Government is making 80 per cent of the contribution. Also return here is granted.

The scheme is managed by Employees’ Provident Fund Organisation (EPFO) and ensures that employee gets a pension once he reaches the age of 58. Assuming the employee in now, and employee and employer contribute 12 per cent of employee’s basic salary plus dearness allowance towards EPF. As per the provisions of EPS, 80 per cent of the interest on deposit is credited in EPF while 8.33 per cent (out of 12 per cent) from employers goes towards EPS and remaining in EPF. Also, the Government contributes 1.16 per cent of employee’s basic plus DA towards EPS as well.

One is eligible to get pension under EPS 95 after attaining the age of 58 years. However, there is one condition which says the benefits of the scheme can be availed only if the employee served for at least 10 years (this does not have to be continuous service). In case the widow/widower is of receiving the EPS amount, they will continue to receive the amount until his/her death.

After that, the children will receive the pension amount until they attain the age of 25 years. In case the child is physically challenged, they will receive the pension amount until his/her death.

As of now, floor for monthly pension is Rs. 1,000, while maximum has been capped at Rs. 15,000. However, the Supreme Court upheld the Kerala High Court verdict on monthly pension from the EPS 95. The cap of Rs. 15,000 on the basic salary was removed by the High Court. Also, there is long pending proposal to double the minimum pension to Rs. 2,500. Meanwhile, the Central Government has also not been able to bring any new guidelines as there are no new guidelines for implementing decisions of the apex court, while Central Board of Trustees (CBT) has not recommended doubling the minimum limit.

PENSION SCHEMES

eighteen years of age and not exceeding forty years of age. Those who will not be eligible to join the scheme, if he/she is covered under National Pension Scheme contributed by the apex body of Employees’ Provident Fund under the Employees’ State Insurance Corporation of India, 1948 or Employees’ Provident Fund Scheme under the Employees’ Provident Funds and Miscellaneous Provisions Act, 1952 or if he/she is an income-tax assessee. Each eligible subscriber under this scheme will receive assured minimum monthly pension of Rs. 3,000 after attaining the age of 60 years through Life Insurance Corporation of India. Once the eligible subscriber joins this scheme at the entry age between 18-25, such subscriber will be entitled to the assured minimum monthly pension with benefit of family connection.

Conclusion

Apart from these Government schemes, there are pension plans offered by financial intermediaries. Still, the fact is that pension penetration is very low. Report accompanying Melbourne Mercer Global Pension Index found that just six per cent working age population are members are private pension plans. At the same time a CRIISL research report (Financial security for India’s elderly: The imperatives, April 2017) for pension market segmentation PPPDRA says that India is a young country in terms of demographics, but ageing is happening. “By 2050, every 100 Indian women will be equal in strength to 100 men.” The world is not prepared for this demographic shift. Hence, a good starting point for the country is to focus on the current members and make them aware of the benefits of these pension plans. It is a fact that the development of the underpenetrated pension market in India be initiated now, when the situation is ripe,” it mentioned.

The report has quoted finding of World Bank report which says that India’s life expectancy has also been on the rise – going from 62.5 in 2000 to 68.3 in 2015. Now, the average life expectancy at 65 years is 17.5 years at 17.9 in 2015 vs 16.5 in 2000. All these are preparing a ground for much better and wider pension infrastructure and that too at affordable cost and with simplicity.

Increase in regulations: Although this is the age of liberalization and governments are trying to promote ease of business, there has to be certain regulations to ensure fair practices, corporate governance and tax compliance etc. There has been an increase in legal connotations and in many cases companies want these to be handled by legal professionals with required specialization or expertise.

Corporateization of legal jobs: The business sector of the country has grown more sophisticated in recent years. There is more liking for professionally educated, competent people in all walks of business. Big companies decided to have their own legal teams and smaller companies followed.

Increasing interest of foreign players in the Indian market: India is among the fastest growing economy in the world and a leader among emerging markets. After China, it has the second largest population. The sheer size of the market is enough to attract global players, foreign institutional investors (FIIs) etc. To enter a new market these need to know various legal provisions so their entry can be smooth with no legal complications. Here corporate lawyers come to their help.

Study of Law
To have any kind of professional career in law, you need at least a bachelor degree in the subject. Perhaps it is the only subject which requires a degree to pursue a degree. The Bachelor of Law usually known as LL.B qualification requires a study of three years and you may have to appear for an entrance exam after completing an education cycle of 10+2+3. However now integrated courses offering a law degree are extensively available which can be joined after 10+2. The duration of such courses is five years. It saves you one year as doing both graduation and LL.B one after the other takes six years.

If you are going for a 3 years course in law you may join it after B.A, B.Sc., B.Com., B.B.A etc. There are also people who pursue a degree after their postgraduation. So you can find people who have set of qualifications like M.A., LL.B., M.S.C., L.B etc.

Five years courses are available in combination with B.A., B.Sc., B.Com., B.B.A etc. The availability may differ from institute to institute meaning that not all combinations are available at all the institutes. Although a LLB degree is considered sufficient for a corporate career, in law CLAT which is a joint entrance examination conducted by NALSAR University of Law, Hyderabad National Law School of India University NLSIU,Bengaluru National Law Institute University (NLIU), Bhopal Gujarat National Law University (GNLU), Gandhinagar Damodar Sanjivayni National Law University (DSNLU), Visakhapatnam Hidayatullah National Law University (HNIU), Bhopal Tamilnadu National Law School (TNNLS), Trichyrapalli National Law University and Judicial Academy (NLUJAVA), Assam The National University of Advanced Legal Studies (NUALS), Kochi National University of Study and Research in Law (NUSRL), Ranchi National Law University (NLU), Jodhpur National Law University Odisha (NLUO), Bhubaneshwar Maharshashtra National Law University (MNU) at Mumbai, Nagpur and Aurangabad Rajiv Gandhi National University of Law (RGNUL), Punjab Chanchal National Law University (CLNU), Patna Ram Manohar Lohia National Law University(RMLNU), Lucknow The West Bengal National University of Judicial Sciences (WBNJUS), Kolkata

Now more and more companies prefer to source their legal manpower requirements through campus placement by visiting reputed law colleges/ universities. Such companies include insurance companies, banks, mutual funds etc. The availability may differ from institute to institute by meaning that not all national law universities are much sought after in such placement process

Course combinations
A qualification in Human Resources HR, or industrial relations or company secretary ship combined with a degree in law is much valued in the corporate world. You should be clear about your career preferences and also factor the time requirement before you opt for an additional qualification.

Examples include National Thermal Power Corporation, Gas Authority Of India Limited, Oil and Natural Gas Corporation, Bharat Petroleum Corporation Limited, Steel Authority of India etc. In some cases these undertakings conduct their own selection process (consisting of written exam, group discussion, interview etc). Another set of companies shortlist candidates on the basis of their CLAT score. Bharat Heavy Electricals Limited is one such company.

Media groups: Opportunities in media groups are of two types. In newspapers and channels there are legal reporters/ correspondents etc. In the administrative set of media houses there are positions for legal personnel.

Private sector: Big corporates like Hindustan Unilever, ITC, Godrej Industries, Tata Steel, Proctor Gamble etc. have their own legal teams. There are also people in private companies,food and beverages companies etc. also appoint legal personnel.

Consulting firms: These can be divided into two categories. In the first category there are consultancies operating in different areas including legal consultancy. The other category of firms exclusively operate in legal matters. These firms employ fresh and experienced legal professionals who work on the cases referred to them by firms' clients. Internship with reputed firms of this kind also carries immense value.
