A t a time when India and many other countries are struggling to revive the economy in the face of corona virus lockdown, the India-European Union Summit comes as a boon with trade and investment being the focus of the discussion to kick-start growth.

The 15th India -EU Summit is "extremely fruitful," Prime Minister Narendra Modi said while participating in the virtual summit. This assumes significance as European Union is among India’s largest economic partner with investment topping over $91 billion cumulatively.

The discussions focused on ways to fight the menace of COVID 19 pandemic, multilateralism, trade and investment. The European Union was represented by European Council President Charles Michel of Belgium and European Commission President Ursula von der Leyen, a German politician.

The Summit was held for the first time in virtual format and highlighted the importance India attached to working together with EU for mutual benefits. This came at a time friction caused by expansionist tendencies of China along the Indian borders. United States, Japan and European Union are among the international communities, which have disapproved the Chinese moves along the Indian borders in Ladakh.

Soon after the Summit, PM Modi tweeted, "I interacted on a variety of subjects including the COVID-19 situation, multilateralism, environment, trade, investment, digital economy and more." He said "The future belongs to technology. It is important to work together to further the usage of latest technology for the benefit of our people."

A free trade deal that India and the European Union have been planning since 2007 is widely expected to gain momentum following the Summit even though no deadline is set for its conclusion. It is called the Bilateral Trade and Investment Agreement. After the Summit Shri Vikas Swarup, Secretary (West), Ministry of External Affairs said, "There is no time frame set for the conclusion of the Bilateral Trade and Investment Agreement (BTIA) but both sides have agreed that the two ministers mandated to take the discussions forward and should meet as early as possible."

He added “EU is our largest trading partner for goods with trade exceeding $100 billion. We also have a large services trade of approximately $40 billion.”

The 15th Summit originally scheduled on March 13, was postponed owing to the pandemic Covid. The virtual meeting assumes significance as it is the first multilateral Summit since Sino-Indian stand-off in early May and also the first since the outbreak of Covid. The key European powers, France and Germany backed the Indian position during the stand-off.

Political Analysts feel that such a global cooperation and solidarity to protect lives, to mitigate the socio-economic consequences and to strengthen the world's economic growth. Continued on page 39

General Manager (Manpower & Recruitment)
The key takeaways are that India and the EU announced a five-year roadmap to build a wider strategic partnership. This roadmap envisions a high-level dialogue to address long-standing trade irritants that have come in the way of the 27-nation union signing an FTA with India. Discussions on ease of doing business, i.e., improving the conditions for doing business for traders and investors as well as supply chain linkages will form part of the dialogue.

Shri. Swarup said the two sides are hoping to restart trade talks in the next few months. Prime Minister Modi invited European companies to invest in India, given the efforts made by his government to improve ease of doing business, regulatory environment and its aim to integrate the country with global value chains.

A joint declaration at the end of the virtual Summit committed to achieving resource efficiency by working towards a circular economic model. Such a model envisions the reduction in primary resource consumption and enhancing the use of secondary raw materials.

A post-COVID-19 economic recovery can potentially accelerate this transition to sustainable patterns of economic growth and development. That in turn will open up greater opportunities for bilateral trade and investment.

Another frontier for future trade and investment will be the digital economy - India values the EU states as a source of talent, intellectual collaboration, and 5G, besides the innovation and investment needed to expand the country's infrastructure, tackle climate change, and upgrade cities with smart architecture.

Since COVID-19 has pushed the shift towards a digital economy with more urgency, the new normal will require massive and secure technology upgrade. This is going to necessitate a closer partnership between India and the EU as new priorities may re-zeit the tone of future trade negotiations.

The EU launched talks with India to establish a broad-based free trade agreement (FTA) in 2007 but negotiations got stuck over after not much significant progress was made in Bilateral Trade and Investment Agreement (BTIA), which broke down in 2013. Talks resumed at a technical level in October 2017 but that too did not make headway. Major sticking points have been over tariffs on automobiles, wines and spirits and the restrictions on free movement of professionals. New Delhi seeks to protect the extensively lobbed interests of its domestic players in the goods trade but wants greater relaxations for India's services exports.

India had previously asked for a smaller trade agreement with the EU before negotiating a wider FTA. The EU, on the other hand, desires a full-fledged trade agreement and slashing tariffs on 90 percent of the goods traded.

The US-China trade war, a resurgent India and China, and a pandemic contributed to shifting of ground realities for negotiators on both sides. The world's dependency on China's highly integrated supply chain suffered during the initial days of the pandemic but as China stabilized, other concerns came to the fore. Meanwhile, foreign firms based in China were already expanding or relocating operations to lower cost regions, with countries in Southeast Asia proving early winners.

Regardless, India has a lot to offer EU businesses in terms of manufacturing and sourcing as well as cheap and surplus labor. India aspires to be a manufacturing hub and integrate into the global supply chain, which requires extensive foreign investment and an open market.

Alma Nirbhar mean reducing imports of those items which can be made locally in a phased manner. This is what every country adopts and India more importantly needed to create a lot of new jobs every year to provide livelihood to its large young population.

With increased tension on India's border with China, Modi government aims to diversify FDI sources and this India-EU Summit provided a useful platform. EU manufacturers and businesses in technology and renewables could tap into the emerging priorities in the Indian economy.

Some Technical Barriers to Trade (TBT), Sanitary and Phyto-Sanitary (SPS) measures, deviation from international standards and agreements need some tweaking in India.

Geopolitical factors, surplus labor, Digital India ambitions are factors that favorably impact India-EU trade and investment talks and these need to be pursued vigorously.

Trade in goods between India and the EU increased by 72 percent over the last decade. The EU is India's largest trading partner and last year accounted for trade in goods worth $80 billion ($US91.07 billion) or 11.1 percent of total Indian trade - on par with the US and ahead of China (10.7 percent). For Indian exports, the EU is its second largest destination (over 14 percent of total Indian exports) after the US. India is the EU's 10th largest trading partner, accounting for 1.9 percent of the EU's total trade in goods in 2019, well behind the US (15.2 percent), China (13.8 percent), and the UK (12.6 percent).

Trade in services between the EU and India is steadily rising, going from $2.23 trillion ($US25.38 billion) in 2015 to $2.96 trillion ($US33.69 billion) in 2018. The EU's share in foreign investment inflows to India also more than doubled from eight percent to 18 percent in the last 10 years. Nevertheless, foreign direct investment (FDI) from the EU to India amounted to just $68 billion ($US$71.41 billion) in 2018, much below its FDI stocks in China ($175 billion or US$199.22 billion) and Brazil ($312 billion or US$355.19 billion). Around 6,000 European companies, involved in a broad range of sectors, have their presence in India, generating 1.7 million direct jobs and indirectly providing 5 million jobs.

Indian companies invested just over $50 billion (US$56.92 billion) in Europe since 2000.

In light of this statistics, the Summit could not have come at a more appropriate time as it provided an opportunity to deepen considerable economic and health challenges into opportunity for both India and the European Union.

Summing up the outcome of the Summit, Shri. Swarup Said, "The India-EU Strategic Partnership: Roadmap to 2025" summarises the framework of our dialogue and cooperation covering wide-ranging areas including foreign and security policy, trade and investment, modernisation, sustainable development, research and innovation, education and exchange of scholars, migration and mobility, and global governance.

Discussions were also held on the India-European Atomic Energy Community Agreement on research and development cooperation in the peaceful uses of nuclear energy to enable collaboration between the Department of Atomic Energy and EU member states, on issues such as civil applications of atomic energy in areas such as (agriculture, healthcare, industry), radioactive waste management, fusion, nuclear safety and security.

Shri. Swarup Said, Renewal of Science and Technology Cooperation Agreement for another five years will enable the continuation of scientific projects and research exchanges in areas such as biotechnology, clean energy, e-mobility, energy efficiency, marine sciences, etc.

The joint declaration on resource efficiency and circular economy will enable dialogue and cooperation in areas such as policy and regulations, exchange of best practices and capacities and technical exchanges in areas such as energy efficiency, waste management, recycling, circular business models and in areas such as mobility, ICT, mobility, construction, food and textiles sector.
