The sudden outbreak of the novel Coronavirus earlier this year has shook economies around the globe. ‘Countries are busy devising new strategies to curtail its adverse effect on industries’ growth. The global pandemic posed various challenges to India’s economic development. Thousands were rendered jobless in some sectors and many others with salary cuts. This led to millions of workers moving back to their homes in hinterlands of the country resulting in a complete reconfiguration of the supply and demand balance in the workforce market.

The current situation requires a redrawing of the map of skilling, as the new normal has made certain job roles irrelevant while raising the importance of others. Logistics, Sanitation, Animal Husbandry, Healthcare, Pharma, FMCG, E-commerce and Home Delivery services sectors are witnessing a surge in demand for skilled workforce in the post-Covid era.

At the same time, there is a greater thrust on technology-driven job roles such as Artificial Intelligence, Cloud Computing, Machine Learning, Robotics and Data Analytics. Mapping the skilled workforce as per their expertise and reconnecting them back to sustainable employment opportunities is crucial for Indian economy’s faster recovery. As many of them are now based out of their home towns, it is ideal if we can connect their existing skills to relevant job prospects at their location or nearby vicinity. At the same time, there is a heavy focus on up-skilling, re-skilling and multi-skilling to empower existing workforce with improved efficiency to undertake these new-age job roles. Improved models of skilling need to be implemented that bring in scalability and quick turn-around time in training the workforce to be industry-relevant and ready for jobs of the future.

In an endeavour to bridge the existing demand-supply gap in the skilled workforce market, the Ministry of Skill Development and Entrepreneurship (MSDE) launched ‘Aatmanirbhar Skilled Employee Employer Mapping (ASEEM)’ portal in July this year. The portal aims to improve the information flow in the workforce market and act as a matching engine between people without jobs and industries struggling without qualified manpower. Developed and managed by National Skill Development Corporation (NSDC) in collaboration with Bengaluru based start-up Better place, the artificial intelligence-based platform aims to perform well in an interview. Best preparation is never enough. However it shouldn’t worry a candidate and he/she should make her/his best preparation. By best preparation we mean overall preparation covering all aspects to which questions may relate. Given below are few pivots anywhere and everywhere not only for job, even for admissions, project assignments, internships etc.

INTERVIEW AS A SELECTION TOOL

Given below are few pivots anywhere and everywhere not only for job, even for admissions, project assignments, internships etc.

Interview is an employee selection tool. In case there exist few positions, selections are solely based on shortlisting of applications and interviewing shortlisted candidates. When there are large number of vacancies, written examination is conducted and candidates who qualify in such tests are called for interview, in a certain proportion. Sometimes it is three candidates per position, sometimes more. For jobseekers there is no escape from interview. So they will do well to understand why interviews are conducted and what approach will help them to perform well in an interview.

Interview is an event to hold a conversation between candidate and the employer (or their representative). While the candidate’s objective is to get selected for the position, the employer wants to be sure about the suitability of candidate in terms of his/her knowledge, skill and aptitude which come as personality components. The candidate would try to prove himself/herself as the best candidate whereas the employer will try to find who indeed are the best.

However, Interview shouldn’t be taken just as conversation, it’s an organizational process to find the right human resource fit for a present or expected role. To give an example a candidate has done very well in the written examination and has been called for interview. The candidate has all qualifications that suit the job. However, he/she is not able to properly exhibit his/her knowledge, traits etc. before the interview panel and is eventually not selected. The above example clearly illustrates the importance to carry yourself well in any interview.

Another challenge at interview is, unpredictability i.e. one doesn’t know what is going to be asked. Although the panelists should ideally choose questions which gauge suitability of the candidate for the task or role. However in many cases irrelevant questions too are asked. Even otherwise the scope of questions is without boundaries and candidates are subjected to questions from anywhere and everywhere. It simply means that a candidate's preparation for interview is never enough. to strengthen youth’s career pathways by handholding them through their journeys to attain industry-relevant skills and explore emerging job opportunities in the post-COVID era.

ASEEM provides real-time information to add value to the skilling ecosystem by helping candidates connect with suitable livelihood opportunities. It helps identify relevant skilling requirements and employment prospects in their local communities. By bringing in close coordination across various schemes and programs, it also helps re-engineer the vocational training landscape in the country ensuring skilling, up-skilling and re-skilling in a more organised set up. Available as an Android App as well, ASEEM consists of three IT based interfaces - Employer Portal for employer onboarding, demand aggregation and candidate selection; Dashboard for reports, trends and analytics that highlight skill gaps and Candidate Application to help create and track candidate profile and share job suggestions based skill sets and market demand. It provides skilled candidates, jobseekers as well as students access to data on industries and occupations that are growing in their area and analyse which careers match their skill-sets. It also helps them know about various job openings, identify key jobs roles that are most in demand and accordingly analyse what kind of education, training, and credentials they require for specific careers. Candidates can complete their profiling using Optical Character Recognition (OCR) for document repository, apply for preferred jobs, get real time location of selection process and receive final update on their selection etc. on the app itself. Based on candidate applications of job roles, more preferred demand roles can be ascertained as well. Further, self-training modules are being developed to offers and prepare candidates for demand fitment with courses that map to National Occupation Standards (NOS) in digital chat-based formats.

Relevant, timely, and accessible workforce information plays a critical role in strengthening career pathways for youth and guiding skill attainment for career growth. Hence, improved strategies for up-skilling and re-skilling the current workforce have to be reinforced to empower them with industry-relevant skills that get them ready for the future of work. About 5,00,000 people have been aligned to job opportunities in just over three months through the platform as states continue to relax restrictions, more businesses open doors and festive demand starts to pick up. The platform has more than 10 million registered job seekers. Top sectors that are in demand and actively hiring people include Logistics, Manufacturing, Construction, Retail, Textile, Healthcare, Food, Hospitality, and Banking and Finance. Job roles in demand include Delivery Agents, Warehouse Personnel, Medical Technicians, Home Nursing Attendants, Electricians, Masons, Drivers, Concierge, Security Guards, Technicians and Engineers amongst others. There are about 700 employers on the platform currently including leading organizations such as Larsen & Toubro, Welspun, Flipkart, Amazon, JBM Auto, Sodexo, JK Tyres, Apollo Tyres, Jubilant FoodWorks, Shapoorji Pallonji, Bandhan Bank, DLF Brands, Meru Cabs and LIC.

Skilling is the key to drive growth in India and make its youth truly ‘Aatmnirbhar’. Today, there is a greater demand of upgradation of existing skills to help youth stay relevant and adapt to the rapidly evolving workforce. ASEEM is a key step towards fulfilling our vision to train a highly skilled, tech-savvy workforce that can thrive in this age of automation, through up-skilling and re-skilling. The portal will add more value to the skilling and employment ecosystem in the future and contribute to building opportunities for the workforce, which is essential for faster recovery of the economy. S: Among recent winners of Nobel Prize in Economics, it's hard to think of one issue which is more topical and relevant to India.

R: There are hundreds of thousands of microbes surrounding us. They can constitute a war crime and a constitutive act of genocide.

Q: The correct sequence should be (a) PQRS (b) PRQS (c) SPQR (d) QRSP

S: From 1600 to 1757 the East India Company's role in India was that of a trading corporation which brought in goods or precious metals into India and exchanged them for Indian goods like textiles and spices, which it sold abroad. Its profits came primarily from the sale of Indian goods abroad. Naturally, it tried constantly to open new markets for Indian goods in Britain and other countries. Thereby, it increased the export of Indian manufacturers, and thus encouraged their production. This is why Indian rulers tolerated and even encouraged the establishment of the Company's factories in India. But, from the very beginning, the British manufacturers were jealous of the popularity that India textiles enjoyed in Britain. All of a sudden, dress fashions changed and Indian goods in foreign markets increased. cotton textiles still held their fascination among the educated classes of the world in which individual liberties are compromised.

R: It is against this backdrop that the White Paper makes explicit views from the public on the shape and substance of a comprehensive data protection law assumes significance.

Q: The correct sequence should be (a) SRQP (b) QRSP (c) SRPQ (d) QSRP

S: The minutes of the U.S. Senate Foreign Relations committee meeting show that economic uncertainty due to the trade war is already affecting private investment in the U.S., with many investors deciding to scale back or delay their investment plans.

Q: From this section you have few short passages. After each passage, you will find some items based on the passage. First, read a passage and answer the items based on it. You are required to select your answers based on the contents of the passage and opinion of the author only.

Q44. S1: The climate question had been high on the political agenda.

R: From 1600 to 1757 the East India Company’s factories in India were the only place where cotton fabrics could be produced in a large scale. The British government knew that these factories were profitable, and therefore, it imposed heavy import duties. In 1760 a lady had to pay a fine of 100 for forbidding the wear or use of imported clothes. In its place, it pay a fine of 200 for possessing an imported handkerchief! Moreover, heavy duties were imposed on the import of plain cotton from neighboring countries, except Holland, also either prohibited the import of Indian cloth or imposed heavy import duties. In all, this policy, however, Indian silk and cotton textiles still held their own in foreign markets, until the middle of the eighteenth century when the English textile industry began to develop on the basis of new and advanced technology.

INTERVIEW AS A SELECTION TOOL

to know about a company is by visiting its website. Here you’ll know how old is the company, what does it make or what services it offers, how it is positioned and also the company’s vision and mission. It is advisable to also gather some information about the sector, which the company belongs to. For example if you are appearing for a job in an insurance company, you should have a brief picture of the status of insurance in the country as well as challenges and opportunities related to it. You should know which are the major players in the sector. It is also important, in this case to be able to explain what is meant by insurance and how it helps people. You may be asked why you want to join this sector.

Justifying your interest and suitability for the job: Given the situation in our country, there are always more candidates than the available positions. So the employer has to make a choice and undoubtedly this choice means finding the most suitable candidate. You may be asked questions like ‘Why should we hire you?’ What makes you suitable for this job? If you have already understood the requirements to perform well in the job and enumerate how you have them, you may create an advantage for yourself.

Describing your uniqueness: Competitive advantage is something every progressive organization wants to achieve. Human resource of an organization makes significant contribution in achieving this. There is no dearth of ordinary people in this world. However our uniqueness in the positive sense creates new opportunities for us and also for the organization which leverages our talent. So at the time of interview, if some of the discussion goes around the factors that make you unique, you shouldn’t be surprised. You need to be able to explain how hiring you is beneficial for the organization and in what way you’ll be contributing towards achievement of organizational goals.

Creating a positive impression through your communication: Interview is a communication based process. You may or may not be comfortable with the questions which are asked in the interview or the way in which the interview is conducted. However you have to create a good impression through your communication and manners in order to qualify. It is under standable that one may not Know answers to few of the questions. On your part you’ve to remain cool, positive and open. What you speak definitely matters but what you don’t speak also carries a meaning. In our day to day life, most of us don’t bother much about our body language. But while being interviewed one should not ignore this. The saying – ‘first impression is the last impression’ is known to most of us. We start creating an impression from the time we make our entry to the interview room and the process continues till we leave. For creating a positive impression one needs to focus on:

- Dressings: Being in good attire makes us look good, at the same time it also makes us feel better and improves our confidence. Enough guidance is available about being properly dressed for interview. The key point is to go for simplicity, elegance and decency.

- Body language: You need to wish all the members of the interview panel, not just the one involved in the interview. Posture should be straight and with eye contact to everyone in general and the panelist who has posed question, in particular. Your palms can rest on thighs or kept joined in lap. You should occupy your seat with minimum noise. When the interview gets over, you need to thank everyone and leave the room but not in too much hurry.

Answering questions: You need to concentrate on each question to answer it well. There may be questions which will be having specific answers such as general knowledge questions (example who is the regulator for stock markets in our country?). At times your opinion about something may also be asked. Don’t be in haste to answer. In case of former, just think if you know the correct answer. If yes you may go ahead but in case you don’t know, there is no harm in telling the truth. Such honest approach is appreciated. Wherever your opinion has been asked, examine the issue for a while and then only speak. Being extreme in your opinion may not be considered good. Also while expressing your opinion, subtly you should convey that it is just your opinion and not the only opinion.

Being authentic: Interviewers are looking for candidates who can perform well in the job and enumerate how you have them, you may create an advantage for yourself.

Competency based interviewing or Behavioural event interviewing: In this form of interviewing candidates are asked to describe situations or experiences they had in a previous job or in course of their education or in their social interactions. Responses to such questions are not confined to the traditional questions because these cannot be rehearsed ahead of time. Nonetheless, the interviewer gathers valuable information from experiential responses because when it comes to hiring candidates, there is a well-documented history of using past performance as an indicator of future performance. Behavioural job interview questions, by pushing candidates past generic answers, bring out a candidates thinking process, value system and approach to problems by making them to talk about what they have really done through. These give you an idea of how a candidate behaved in real situations, rather than their take on how they should have reacted. By providing real life examples of their past behaviour, employers can gain a more accurate candidate profile. Given below are a few examples of questions that may be put across in a behavioural event interviewing process.

- Talk about a difficult problem you’ve had to solve. How did you solve it?
- How have you dealt with an angry or upset customer?
- Was there a situation when you couldn’t complete an assignment in time? How did you justify it?

However the above questions are basic in nature and answering the questions lead to relating rigorous questions which may be designed to probe further. Candidates that demonstrate traits required for role and workplace are likely to be selected.

Competency based interviewing: Competency mapping is an important component of HR processes. Competencies are a set of skills, abilities, knowledge that helps an individual perform a given task in real life. Every job require certain competencies. In competency mapping every job is broken into components and competencies required to effectively accomplish these are listed. To illustrate, for a customer service role a candidate needs to have knowledge about systems and procedures accompanied with empathy and good listening skills. Also, according to the responsibilities are really done competencies of a higher order may be required. So, though good communication skills may be needed in every service sector job; a senior manager need to have far more advanced communication skills that a junior or assistant manager.

In Competency based interviewing, competencies for a particular role, in terms of knowledge, skills and capabilities etc. are defined and questions related to these are asked to find out how far the candidate being interviewed possesses these competencies. The questions also seek answers that can tell the likelihood of developing or enhancing such competencies by the candidate in near future. In the list of competencies, candidates, for whom the maximum number of boxes are ticked, may be selected.

 Behavioural event interviewing or Competency based interview shouldn’t be considered as replacement of general interview. All of these may be combined or may be conducted separately.

Also generic interviewing doesn’t require any specific training, but interviewers in Behavioural event interviewing or Competency based interviewing are usually trained and skilled in the related format.

Online Interview: In these times of Covid-19, most of the hiring is happening online. The idea is to avoid physical gathering in order to minimise the possibility of transmission of virus. Private sector companies, in particular, are more into conducting online interviews. In case you’re going to appear for an online interview, you need to install the application platform which will connect the interviewee and the interviewer and pre check that it runs effectively. Care also needs to be taken to check the aspects of lighting and sound so that images are clear and conversation goes without any glitches.

India asks Pakistan to vacate Gilgit Baltistan instead of altering status
India has firmly rejected the attempt by Pakistan to bring material changes to a part of the Indian territory, under its illegal and forcible occupation. India reiterated that Jammu and Kashmir as well as Ladakh falling within the area of so-called Gilgit-Baltistan, are an integral part of the country by virtue of the legal, complete and irrevocable accession of Jammu and Kashmir to the Union of India in 1947. In response to media queries on remarks by Pakistan Prime Minister in Gilgit, regarding his government’s decision to accord provisional provincial status to the so-called Gilgit-Baltistan, External Affairs Minister Anurag Srivastava said, Pakistan has no locus standi on territories illegally and forcibly occupied by it. He said, such attempts by Pakistan, intended to camouflage its illegal occupation, couldn’t hide the grave human rights violations, exploitation and denial of freedom for over seven decades to the people residing in these Pakistan occupied territories.

India will not accept any shift in Line of Actual Control with China
Chief of Defence Staff General Bipin Rawat has said that India’s self-defence capabilities and unprovoked military actions spiraling into a larger conflict can’t be discounted. Speaking at a webinar organized by the National Defence College on 08th November, the General said, the situation along the Line of Actual Control (LAC) in eastern Ladakh remains tense and that China’s PLAF is facing unanticipated consequences for its misadventures in Ladakh because of firm responses by Indian forces. General Rawat said, India’s posturing is unambiguous and the country will not accept any shift in the Line of Actual Control. He said, as India grows in stature, security challenges will also rise proportionately. Speaking on Pakistan, General Bipin Rawat said the new Indian template to deal with terror has injected uncertainty in the country which was continuing its proxy war through cross-border terror.

Mahbub Ali said that the air-bubble arrangement between the two countries has helped people who need to travel for medical, business and other purposes.

China parries question regarding its stand on Gilgit-Baltistan
The Chinese double talk has come to the fore once again. At a press conference in Beijing, the Chinese foreign ministry spokesman gave a direct response to its stand on Pakistan granting provincial status to Gilgit-Baltistan in Pakistan Occupied Kashmir. Using an often reiterated cliché, he said it is an issue left over from history between China and Pakistan. The seemingly quiet response of the Chinese establishment vis a vis Pakistan’s move in forcibly occupied Gilgit-Baltistan exposes its diatribe against India scrapping article 370 from Jammu & Kashmir in August last year. It may be recalled that China had made protests at that time but now chose to remain quiet on Pakistan in its effort to make changes in Gilgit Baltistan.

SAI files case on false advertisement for next year’s Khelo India Games

The Sports Authority of India has filed a case with the Uttar Pradesh police for an immediate investigation of an advertisement asking athletes to pay up for participation in the Khelo India Games to be held at Panchkula in Haryana next year. The Sports Authority of India has received several complaints from athletes from across the country. In an advertisement posted on social media platforms, athletes have been asked to deposit 6000 rupees for enrolling in the Khelo India Games to participate in the Khelo India Games. Acting as an aspi- rant, the SAI officials managed to get the bank account details of the person, who is a resident of Agra. The advertisement also uses the logos of the Ministry of Youth Affairs and Sports, Sports Authority of India and Khelo India, which misled several athletes to believe it to be a government advertisement. Khelo India is a government scheme and athletes do not need to pay any money to participate in it.
