The spread of Covid-19 worldwide has had a tremendous effect on mankind. In India, since the beginning of the pandemic, people started improving and boosting their immunity. At this point, people are not only talking about boosting immunity, they are also becoming more aware of what they are consuming. This situation has also led to promotion of organic food for human safety, more specifically human immunity. It is believed that more vitamins, trace elements and probiotics present in organic food will help to fight, or at least to prevent the Covid-19 infection. Even before the outbreak of the pandemic, the new plant protection code was published in 2017-18 by Government of India that reflected the intention of Government towards the promotion of alternative methods instead of conventional methods through banning many pesticides and herbicides. The growing problem of pest resistance, pesticide residue in crop and soil, health hazards of farmers as well as consumers, cancellation of consignment in international markets are the major effects of indiscriminate and frequent uses of chemicals in agriculture. Chemical fertilizers are not only disturbing the flora, fauna of soil microcosm but also affecting its natural fertility and productivity. A joint report of Food Safety and Standards Authority of India (FSSAI) revealed that the foods which general population are consuming are full of pesticides and even some are not at all edible and categorized under poison with high amount of toxin in them due to pesticide application.

Organic agriculture contributes to ensuring the five securities in an integrated whole: environmental security, economic security, nutritional security, health security and food security. It also plays a role in poverty alleviation by combining many features like increasing yields in low-input area, conserving biodiversity and natural resources on the farm and its surrounding area, increasing income and reducing costs, producing safe and varied foods and being sustainable in long term. In this connection, demand of organic market has increased gradually since last few years and so has the government promotion for organic farming.

The global ranking of India in organic agriculture stood at eighth position with 176 million hectares of area under it. During 2017-18 the share of organic agricultural land of India was 2.56 percent in the total world of organic agriculture. In 2016, Sikim became the first organic state of India. Some key information about organic farming in India is given in Table 1.

India has the potential to become a major organic agriculture country, having international demand for our farm products, different agro-climatic regions for the cultivation of a number of crops, the size of the domestic market and above all the long tradition of environment friendly farming and living. Considering the current status, India has a wide scope for increasing organic practices for achieving sustainable development of agriculture. The data for the year 2018-19 mentioned in Table 2 and Table 3 indicates the major state players in terms of organic agriculture area and organic food production.

Government of India has been very actively supporting promotion of organic farming. The National Programme for Organic Production (NPOP) was implemented in the year 2001. The first step in this regard involved the accreditation programme for certification bodies, standard for organic production, promotion of organic farming etc. The NPOP standards for production and accreditation system have been recognized by European Commission and the succeeding years have seen an increasing trend in organic farming in India.

CAREER PROSPECTS IN ECONOMICS & BUSINESS STUDIES

Prof (Dr) C. B. Singh & Dr O S Shekhar Singh

Economics is the study of production, distribution and consumption of goods and services and teaches us most effective utilisation of available resources. Economists work in three broad sectors of the economy: i.e. the primary sector related to raw materials, the secondary sector related to manufacturing and the third sector related to the services. Economics includes the study of how societies, governments, businesses, housewives, and individuals allocate their resources. This discipline has two important features. First, we develop conceptual models of behaviour to predict responses to changes in policy and market conditions. Second, we use rigorous statistical analysis to investigate these changes.

Skills and Personal Qualities required

For the majority of economist careers, you’ll need to study economics at postgraduate level in order to gain the specialist skills required. An economist should have:

- Knowledge of Social Sciences
- Be good at understanding complex systems
- Analytical skills
- Mathematical acumen
- Logical thinking
- Be good at numerical ability

work with figures
- Ability to handle concepts & figures with ease
- Ability to clarify thoughts and predictions in relation to the industry
- Interest in current affairs & ability to assess implications as an analyst
- Patience and remain positive and optimistic
- Good communication skills

in speech & writing to explain complex economic analyses

Our society is becoming global and competitive at a very fast pace, as a result of this, it has become extremely complex in recent times there is a spike in the career opportunities for professionals like Economic Analysts, Economic Researchers, and Economic Consultants and Finance Managers. These professionals can handle the growing complexity of society very efficiently and effectively. Demand for experienced research fellows and trained associates is growing day by day in several National and Multinational Corporations (MNCs) and they are being appointed and employed as Economic Analysts. Banking and Insurance sector is a very crucial in terms of job prospects.

After liberalization, privatization and globalization (LPG) the job opportunities have increased many times. Economists analyze issues related to growth and development, welfare and policy formulation, and assist their long and short term significance for the country.

Careers in economics are diverse with job roles covering everything from food and agriculture to business and banking. Depending on your area of interest, an economics degree will help you develop specialized analytical skills, enabling you to successfully enter multiple industries as a professional economist, or as another type of professional with an eye for economics.

An economics degree will boost your employability in many areas, regardless of the industry you work within. This reflects strong demand throughout the global labor market, and the widely transferable analytical and problem solving skills developed by economics students.

As a professional economist, you'll be involved in researching and analyzing economic data, issues and trends. To be a professional economist you'll also need to be confident in producing economic forecasts and reports to present to clients (individuals, companies, financial organizations and public bodies) and to advise on policy and business strategy accordingly.

Possible employers include local and national government, public and private banks, insurance companies, think-tanks, large multinational companies, financial consultancies, accountancy firms and local authorities. A sound awareness of current domestic and international economics is important.

Scope of Eco Professionals

Eco Professionals/ Economists analyze issues related to growth and development, welfare and policy formulation, and assess their long and short term significance for the country. Economics is the study of production and distribution processes and their effective means of utilizing available resources. Economists often specialize some most fascinating jobs. Some of these are as under:

i. Research Economists: Develop mathematical models to explain and interpret business cycles, inflation, effects of tax policy, unemployment. Use Mathematics and Statistics to the theory and principles of Economics, Apply econometrics for analysis and prediction of all economic activity.

ii. Business Economists: Work as company’s administrators, making decisions about company policies, plan future business activities in relation to general business conditions, national and international trade policies, governmental regulations and directives.

iii. Agricultural Economists: Study economic aspects of agricultural problems in order to increase efficiency of farm management, improve farm income and affect favorable agricultural legislation; Forecast production and consumption of agricultural products; locate optimum markets and deal with agricultural financing.

iv. Financial Economists: Develop monetary policies and prevent financial crisis; Examine credit structures and collection, banking methods and procedures to devise techniques for regulation of lending, fixing interest and discount rates.

v. International Economists: Collect and analyze statistical data and other information on foreign trade for favorable trade balances; Establish acceptable international trade policies, exchange controls and operation of foreign exchanges; Study, implementation and formulation of policies on investments, and transfer of capital on the international front.

vi. Labour Economists: Study labour trends and policies; handle labour disputes, unions, industrial policies of management, work as advisors to government or industry.

vii. Industrial Economists: Studies the organizational structures of business to make maximum use of assets; Knowledge of methods of financing, production costs, techniques of marketing policies for possible improvements. Analyze market trends to relate production for future consumption and interpret effects of government regulations and legal restrictions on installation.

viii. Economics careers in the public sector: In the public sector, economics careers are prolific, serving to keep governments and governments under control. Those who study economics are likely to be valued in all areas of public and private spending, including roles within pricing and risk analysis, financial management, and economic planning. While job roles vary hugely, economist careers in the public sector are often involved in public tax, protection, commercial and waste services, energy and other forms of government spending. Despite the recent global recession, the demand for economic regulation by governments across the globe, economists students are currently seeing an increase in demand in this sector.

ix. Economics careers in Banking: Banking careers are very common among economics students, offering scope for high earnings and high demand for economists. Graduates with a background in economics are particularly valued for roles in financial control, financial planning, risk analysis, data analysis and consultancy. With a focus on keeping the financial regulations in line with the needs of the clients and businesses on track, banking careers are largely concerned with advising and providing services for a range of banking clients and consumers.

x. Economics careers in business and financial consultancy: Economists and economics experts are at the heart of the banking world and financial consultancy. Roles within the business sector vary widely, but economics graduates may find positions in large and medium-sized business organizations where economic research is required. The role of an economic researcher is fairly self-explanatory, requiring in-depth knowledge of economics theories and models, thorough analytical and problem-solving skills and mathematical ability.

xi. Financial consultants: Financial consultants in the area of economics would fill similar roles, but may work for multiple clients instead of just one organization, producing reports and advising on business strategy. Up-to-date industry knowledge and awareness of corporate finance is essential in these roles.

xii. Alternative economics degree jobs and careers: With a background in economics, it seems, anything is possible. Other common economics careers and roles include auditor, stockbroker, insurer, business manager, and retail merchandizer, pricing analyst, statistician, financial consultant and salesperson.

But what can you do with an economics degree if none of the above appeals to you? Well, you may want to also consider these broader options business intelligence, international development, human resource management, IT, law, journalism, tax, management, market research, public relations, social research and taxation. Or, you could even become an entrepreneur and start your own business.

Employment opportunities in different Business Organisations:

Today, in every business of production, marketing, finance and even e-commerce, businesses are offering job opportunities to experts in economics or finance. Business organizations cannot run without experts in Economics or Finance.

- Banking and Insurance offices

2. Definition

‘Ex-Service Man’ means a person, who has served in any rank (whether as a combatant or as a non-combatant) in the regular Army, Navy and Air Force of the Indian Union, but does not include a person who has served in the Defence Security Corps, the General Reserve Engineering Corps, the Paramilitary Forces, or the Armed Forces Security Forces, or in any other regular military forces, and who has retired from such service after earning pension; or who has been released from such service on medical grounds attributable to military service or circumstances beyond his control and awarded medical discharge by the concerned authority.

Note:

1. Candidates, who are released / retired from Armed Forces, whose specific period of engagement (SPE) is likely to be completed on or before February 01, 2022 only are eligible to apply under this recruitment. They will also be required to submit the release letter along with a self-certification at the time of joining the Bank that the candidate is entitled to the benefits admissible to Ex-Service Men in terms of Govt. of India Rules. Those candidates, who have already completed their initial period of engagement and are on extended assignment, are required to submit certificates to that effect. If selected, all such candidates mentioned above should get released and join the Bank on or before February 28, 2022. Certificate formats to be submitted by these candidates are provided in ANNEXURE II and these certificates are required to be submitted at the time of Physical Test Inability.

2. The Territorial Army Personnel will be treated as Ex-Service Men w.e.f. 15.11.1988.

3. An Ex-Service Man who has once joined a Government job on the civil side after availing of the benefits given to him as an Ex-Service Man for his re-employment, his Ex-Service status for the purpose of re-employment in Government cannot be utilized.

4. Any violation of these rules pertaining to Ex-Service Men re-employed under the Central Government would apply to Ex-Service Men candidates appearing for the online test:

- Ex-Service Men candidates who have already secured employment under the Central Government in Group ‘C’ & ‘D’ will be permitted the benefit of age relaxation as prescribed for Ex-Service Men for securing another employment in a higher grade or cadre in Group ‘C’ / ‘D’ under Central Government. However, such candidates will not be eligible for the benefit of reservation on second occasion for Ex-Service Men in Central Government jobs.

3. Eligibility Criteria:

(a) Age (as on 01/01/2021)

Normal age limit of 25 years (28 years for OBC and 30 years for SC/ST, as per category relaxation provided by the Government of India) as on January 01, 2021, is further relaxed to the extent of number of years of service in Armed Forces of 3 years subject to maximum upper age limit of 45 years. The upper age limit of 45 years is uniformly applicable to candidates belonging to all categories and not for the benefit of reserved categories.

In case of dispute regarding age, the date of birth as recorded in the school leaving certificate shall be final.

Candidates seeking age relaxation are required to submit copies of necessary documents at the time of Physical Test.

(b) Caste Criteria

(i) Candidate’s seeking reservation as SC/ST/OBC, shall have to produce a certificate in the prescribed proforma only, meant for appointment to posts under the Government of India from the designated authority indicating clearly the candidate’s caste, the Act/Order under which the caste is recognised as...
SC/ST/OBC and the Village/Town the candidate is ordinarily a resident of. They must also ensure that the name of their caste/community is exactly as mentioned in the lists notified by the Central Government from time to time for (OBC) category list of castes recognized by the Govt. of India as OBC castes in the central list is available on the site http://www.mocs.nic.in. The list of caste categories for each state can be found at the site http://www.scst.nic.in and for SC category the list of castes for each state is available on the site http://www.socialjustice.nic.in. A certificate containing any variation in caste name as per government accepted orders shall be appended along with the OBC certificate. The OBC certificate should also clearly indicate that the candidate does not belong to creamy layer as defined by the Government of India for applying to posts and services under the Central Government.

(ii) The OBC claim of a candidate will be determined in relation to the State (or part of the State) to which his father originally belongs. A candidate who has migrated from one State (or part of the State) to another should, therefore, produce an OBC certificate which will be issued and signed by the concerned collector on the basis of OBC certificate issued by the father of the above-mentioned State.

(iii) No change in the community status already indicated in the on-line application form by a candidate will be considered.

(iv) Reserved category candidates belonging to SC/ST/OBC (Non-Creamy Layer) may apply against unserved vacancies if vacancies have not been reserved for their category in their state. However, they must fulfill the eligibility criteria for the post. Candidates from SC/ST will, however, be eligible for relaxation, wherever, applicable.

(c) Educational Qualifications (as on 1/01/2021)

The candidate should have passed 10th Standard (S.S.C./Matriculation) from recognized State Education Board or equivalent. Ex-servicemen who have qualified the examination from outside the recruitment zone either before or after leaving the military service are also eligible.

1. In addition to the above, the candidate should be a resident of the State/UT falling under the jurisdiction of the Recruitment Office to which he is applying (Refer Annexure III).

2. The candidate should be an undergraduate as on 1/01/2021. Graduates and candidates possessing higher qualifications are not eligible to apply.

3. Applicants must complete the requisite number of years prior to the last date of application. For example, candidates from SC/ST will, however, be eligible for relaxation, wherever, applicable.

PROMOTING ORGANIC FARMING

United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) Establishment of the National Centre of Organic Farming (NCOF), Ghaziabad (Uttar Pradesh) in the year 2004 was another milestone in organic farming promotion sector. This centre is promoting National Project on Organic Farming (NPOF) at its HQ as well as its 7 regional centres at Bhubaneswar, Bangalore, Panchkula, Jalandhar, Ludhiana, Patna and Patna.

In recent years, some schemes and programs were implemented by Government of India for promoting organic/natural farming viz., (1) National Mission for Sustainable Agriculture (NMSA) (2) The Parmaparagd Kirti Vikas Yojana (PKVY), (3) Mission Organic Value Chain Development in North East Region (MOVCIDER) (4) Rashtriya Kirti Vikas Yojana (RKVY), (5) National Mission on Organic Horticulture and (6) National Project on Organic Farming (NPOF).

|----|----|----|
| Sl. No. | State | Area |
| 1 | Madhya Pradesh | 674,652 |
| 2 | Maharashtra | 2,50,554 |
| 3 | Rajasthan | 2,23,591 |
| 4 | Odisha | 95,759 |
| 5 | Gujarat | 59,841 |
| 6 | Karnataka | 83,068 |
| 7 | Sikkim | 75,799 |
| 8 | Uttar Pradesh | 62,846 |
| 9 | Meghalaya | 48,409 |
| 10 | Uttarakhand | 36,658 |

On Pesticides and Pesticides (OPM) and the National Food Security Mission (NFSM) are also promoting production of bio-fertilizers and organic fertilizers. The Indian Council of Agricultural Research (ICAR) has also established a new research institute named National Organic Farming Research Institute (NOFRI) in Ganganagar, Rajasthan in the year 2015. The major mandate of this institute is to conduct basic research on sustainable organic farming systems for improving productivity, resource use efficiencies and quality of produce. ICAR’s National Network Project on Organic Farming, Modipuram (Uttar Pradesh) is actively working on technology packages for cultivation of organic crops suitable for the entire country. Besides, many ICAR institutions and state agriculture departments are also promoting organic farming through their research, training and extension activities.

With rising issues about pesticide residue in crops, National Mission on Sustainable Agriculture (NMSA), came into effect in 2014-2015 which was one out of eight missions under the National Action Plan on Climate Change (NAPCC). The strategies and programmes of Actions (POA) defined under this project, aim at promoting sustainable agriculture through different key dimensions of agricultural production, viz., “Improved crop seeds, livestock and fish cultures”, “Water Use Efficiency”, “Pest Management”, “Improved Farm Practices”, “Nutrient Management”, “Agricultural Insurance”, “Credit Support”, “Markets”, “Access to Information” and Livelihood Diversification. It was a good step towards spreading awareness about organic farming, but not much successful in accelerating the organic and sustainable farming in India.

PKVY and MOVCIDER are two dedicated schemes for the promotion of organic farming through state governments. They are extension of the NMSA strategies ensuring the natural way of soil management and agricultural practices in rural and especially in north eastern region, however they were of inadequate scales and had little impact.

PKVY was launched in 2015 as an elaborate part of soil health management under the Centrally Sponsored Scheme i.e. NMSA. Under these two schemes, technical and financial support have been provided for formation of Farmers’ Clusters/ Farmers’ Producer Organisations, Incentives to farmers for procurement of inputs, addition of organic crops/products including post-harvest infrastructure, construction, packaging, branding, publicity, transportation, organic farms, etc. Along with PKVY, PKVY was also a scheme which observed Zero Budget Natural Farming (ZBNF) Policy which encourages the use of cow-dung-based manure for enhancing micro-organisms in soil. Taking into consideration socio-economic and geographical constraints of north east region, MOVCIDER aims to provide connection between the growers and consumers along with the entire value chain focusing on availability of facilities of collection, aggregation, processing, marketing and branding.

Another project in this line was National Project of Organic Farming (NPOF) which was conceptualized earlier but could not draw attention due to under-funding. Since last few years, efforts have been made to revitalize this project, which has the main objective of making available sustainable good quality organic inputs at optimum price. Even some other schemes like Capital Investment Subsidy Schemes (CISS), National Mission on Organic Horticulture and the Indian government towards exports to some U.S., European Union (EU) and South Asia demand, India’s certified organic farming area is likely to increase. This orientation of the Government towards this mission is also clear as, in the Union Budget 2020-21, a sum of 687.5 crore rupees has been allocated as compared to 461.9 crore rupees in 2019-20 for the organic farming sector. However, Government should be more concerned about the proper execution of all plans and reach of their financial support to their appropriate receivers. A simple certification system is also the need of the hour as current certification system is not only laborious but time taking. Urban or kitchen gardening should be encouraged by Government to create awareness and importance of organic farming in coming generation. Subsidized input rates can be a great way to encourage such activities in the daily life of common people. In this situation, demand and interest are expected to be present, any ground schemes and subsidized inputs will certainly change the scenario of organic sector in India.

master degree. However, the rules for admission to bachelor, masters and research degree vary from university to university.

Students who are more interested in Economics than practice may find teaching more rewarding. With a Ph. D. in Economics, international students can get a job as a professor and pass valuable knowledge down to generations of students. Although this job requires quite a bit of work, the hours are almost as great as the pay. You may also consider teaching on a pre-college level. Many elementary, junior high and high schools only require you to have a Bachelor’s Degree along with some classes in education in order to teach.

International students with a degree in Economics can also go to law school. Understanding how Economics works will provide you with a good framework to understand the law system. The analytic skills you gain will allow you to think abstractly about complex arguments, and the ability to read and comprehend academic papers will allow you to make sense of the often dry and complex legal text you will be studying.

Some important courses in Economics & Business Studies are:

1. Bachelor of Arts in Economics
2. Bachelor of Science in Economics
3. Bachelor of Arts in Business Economics
4. Bachelor of Arts in Applied Economics
5. Bachelor of Arts (Hons) in Economics
6. Master of Arts in Financial Economics
7. Master of Arts in Economics
8. Master of Arts in Econometrics
9. Master of Arts in Business Economics
10. Master of Arts in Applied Economics
11. Master of Science in Economics
12. MBA in Business Economics
13. Master of Philosophy in Economics
14. Ph.D. in Economics
15. Ph.D. in Econometrics

Indian Economic Services (IES): Those who have completed M.Sc. or M.A. in Economics with at least 55% marks and in the age group of 21-30 can appear in Indian Economic Service exam which is conducted by UPSC. This Central Group service belongs to Group-A category. This group-A officers perform tasks like economic planning and analysis.

Banking Services within the Public Sector: Reserve Bank of India also hires economists in the banking sector through their own recruitment examinations that are held from time to time. Individuals having age group 21-30 are eligible for RBI exam. Candidates can also find jobs in research institutes like National Council of Applied Economics Research, New Delhi, Indian Council of Social Science Research, Institute of Economic Growth, New Delhi etc. Economists professionals can work independently as an economic consultant. New farm laws provide more rights to farmers: President Kovind

President Ram Nath Kovind has said the Constitution gives the right to freedom of expression but it also expects that we abide by the laws and rules with equal sincerity. Addressing the joint sitting of both Houses of Parliament on the first day of Budget session on 29th January, he termed the recent acts of dishonesting the Narmada Bachao Andolan as a Project on the auspicious occasion of the Republic Day as unfortunate. The President said, the three farm laws enacted by the Parliament in the previous session aim at further helping the farmers in the country as they provide more rights and power to the farmers. Mr. Kovind added that over 10 crore small and marginal farmers have started getting benefits from these reforms in the agriculture sector. He pointed out that the Centre has taken several measures to improve the condition of farmers in the country like implementation of the M S Swarajanand Committee recommendations on Agriculture. This has increased the MSP of crops by 1.5 times.
